Dennis,
Go a real cool guy,
Have a ball this summer,
but be good.
Best of luck in the future.
Carl Barth

A school is composed of many people. However, it is the individual role of each person that is important to the school. . . . The success of the school depends on each individual, and the role he decides to play.

The teacher assumes responsibility for educating the students. He has a genuine interest in the subject he teaches and in the students he teaches. The quality of his teaching depends on the individual himself. His concern and interest effect not only the students he teaches, but also the school and the community.

The student is an individual within the student body. . . . In the classroom his success depends on his involvement and application. He decides to what extent he will accept the responsibility for learning, and he decides whether or not he will utilize his capabilities. These things determine future opportunities as well as his present relationship with the school.

The student also displays his individual talents in extra-curricular activities, and in his willingness to accept responsibilities he reflects his individual competence and integrity.

Individual excellence is predicated on individual inclination. Each individual will excel in the field in which he is most suited. The athletic student, the artistically creative student, the scientifically creative student—each has an opportunity to develop his abilities, but the degree of his success is dependent upon the individual.

Community relationships, like teacher and extra-curricular relationships, depend upon the individual. The experience and knowledge which the student has attained in school can contribute greatly to the improvement of his community.

It is the individual's responsibility to himself, to his school, and to his community to develop his abilities, his talents, and his ideas to their fullest extent.

THE INDIVIDUAL ADMINISTERS . . .

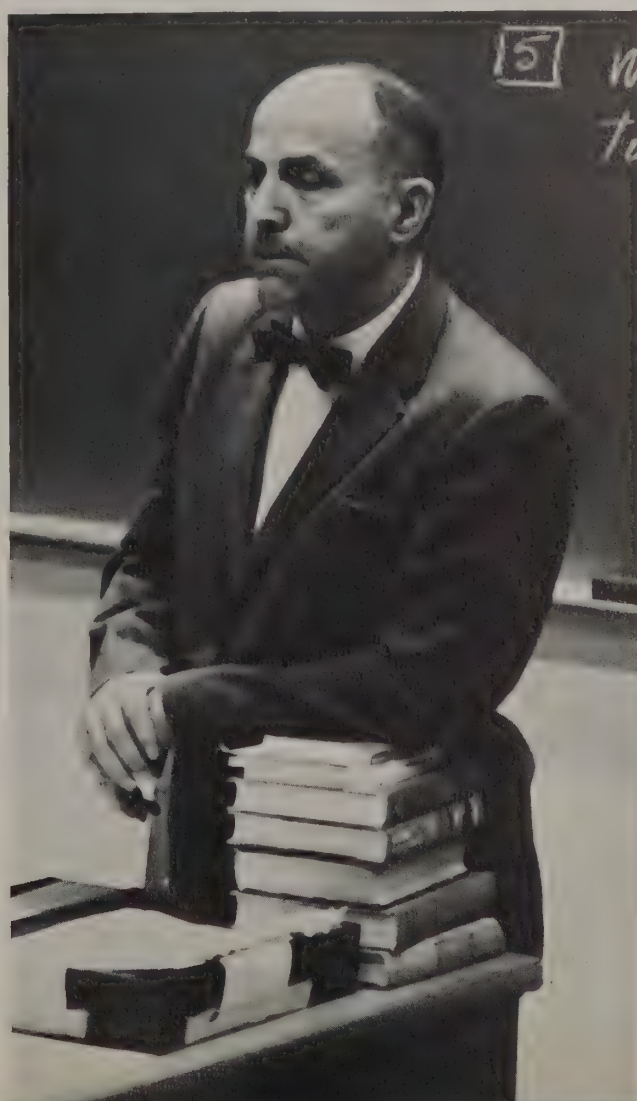

The individual administrator has the responsibility of transferring his knowledge to his students.

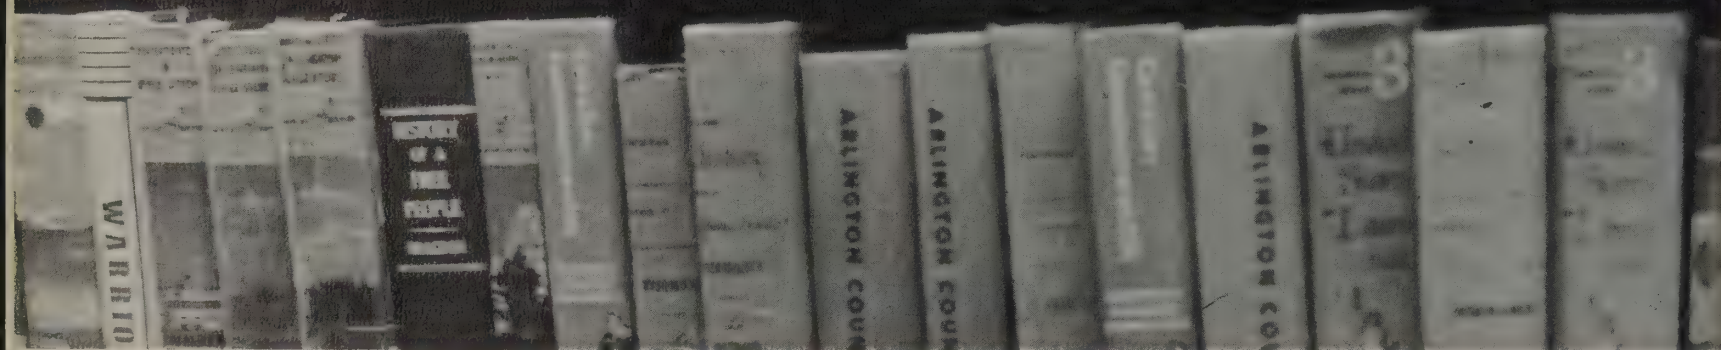

Mr. Neal, J-Division Director, works on his daily endeavors and Mr. Renz gives consideration to the problems that face a divisional director. English teacher Mrs. Bartlett checks over work turned in by her students, and Edward Nash checks the plant's facilities. Mrs. Virginia Nash helps prepare the cafeteria lunch. Superintendent Reid and Principal Johnson confer on a school matter, and Mr. Dixon speaks to his class.

Mr. Neal and Mr. Campbell take a walk during their free time. Mr. Diffenbaugh glances through Aristotle, Sophocles, Alfred E. Newman, Euripedes and Plato. Many articles find their way to the lost and found. Principal Johnson and Superintendent Reid look over the new wing, and Mr. Haithcock fills out finance office forms.

Wakefield is proud to announce a new addition to it's administrative staff, Mr. Johnson.

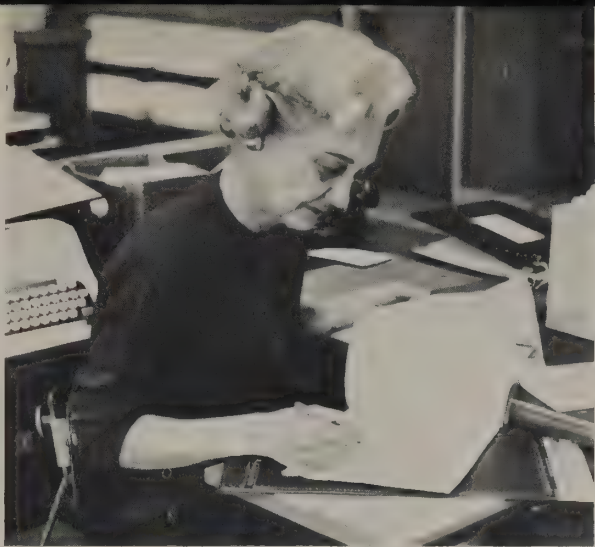

The Administrative Staff Is The Background

Although new to Wakefield, Mr. Johnson is not new to his position. Mr. Johnson completed his A.B. degree at Hampton Sydney College in 1937 to become an instructor at Boiling Springs High School. Later he was appointed principal of East Covington Elementary School. Still rising in his career he held the position of Diversified Occupations Coordinator at Covington High School in 1941, and in 1946 he became principal of Jeter Junior High School where he served for five years. During this time he earned his M.A. degree at the University of Virginia. Continuing to further his own education, he has taken specialized courses in school administration.

Mr. Sonen concludes another afternoon with daily announcements.

Mr. Milo Sonen has been Director of Athletics at Wakefield since 1953. After his graduation from the University of Maryland, he was a football official for fifteen years before coming to Wakefield. This year he has introduced team teaching into the tenth grade health classes. Mr. Sonen says that he is very pleased with Wakefield's Northern Virginia football championship.

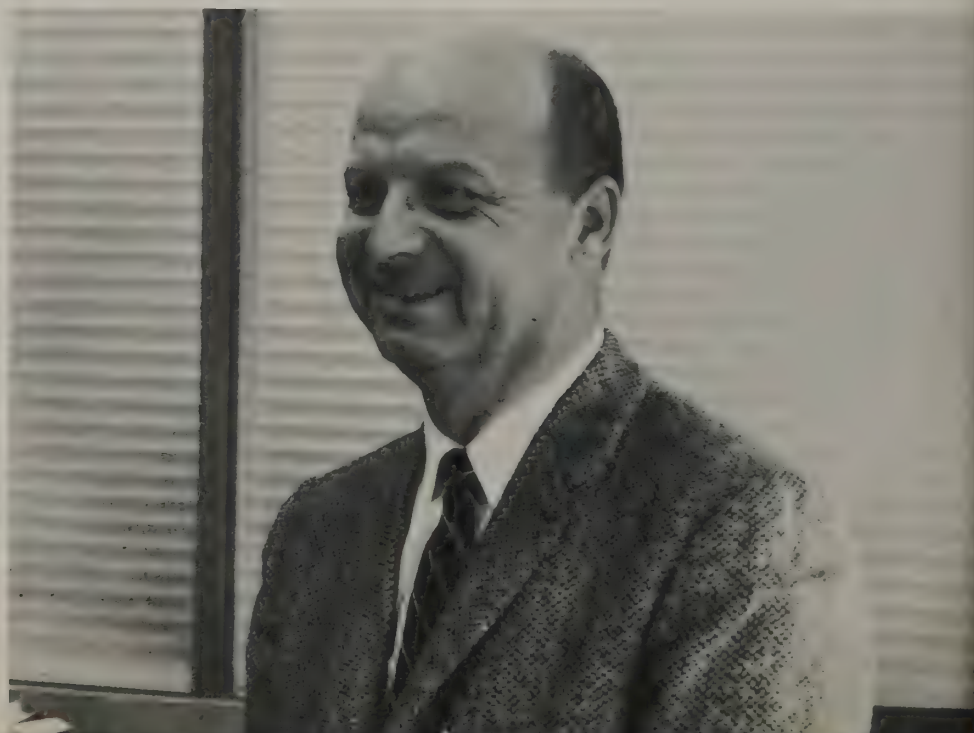

Concerning rumors that twelfth graders will have to take physical education next year he states that it would be impossible because Wakefield's facilities are inadequate for a program of this sort.

Director of Athletics

Mr. Francis Campbell, Director of Guidance, taught at Washington-Lee before coming to Wakefield as its first Guidance Counselor. After receiving his Bachelor of Science degree from Pennsylvania State Teachers' College, he received his Master of Arts in Education at George Washington University. The co-ordinating of the guidance facilities and their reorganization into the division structure, supervision of scheduling and the co-ordination of standardized testing are many of his present duties.

Mr. Campbell, director of guidance, smiles as he's faced with another problem.

Director of Guidance

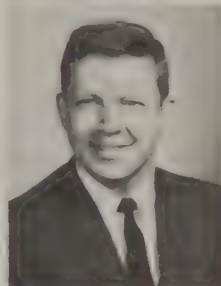

They Lead Us By The Hand

This marks the second year of the divisional system and accordingly, the Guidance Department has shifted its emphasis from class to divisional coverage, with each counselor concentrating on a portion of all three classes. Their program provides the individual student with more attention to his problems. It also permits a student to establish an identity for himself, rather than being a part of a large class. Through his counselor, a student may obtain information about various colleges and guidance as to the college most suited to himself. Those who do not plan to further their academic education are given advice on choosing a vocation to enter after graduation from Wakefield. Thus, through his relationship with his counselor, a student gains much worthwhile guidance.

Mr. Doles listens attentively as a college representative talks to students of Wakefield interested in East Carolina College.

Wakefield Library Has New Hours

This year a few improvements have been added to the Library, such as the advantage of extended hours. Periodical and History rooms have been provided for easier access to the references, and a reference area is now available in the middle section. The total number of books is growing and currently stands at 19,000.

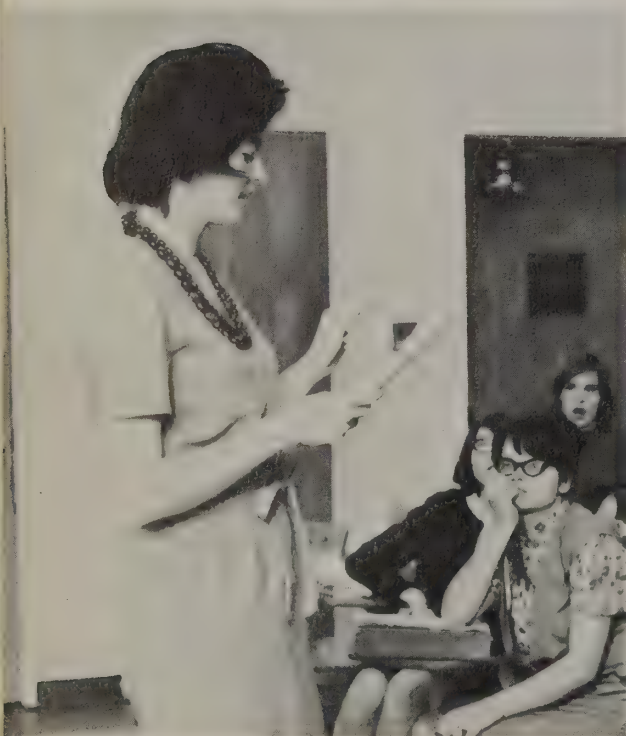

Mrs. Payne and Mrs. Hixson work after school hours to replenish the library shelves.

Drama Has Successful Season

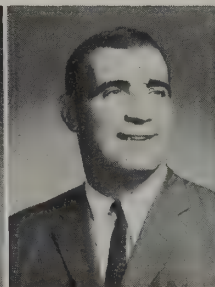

The Speech and Drama Department, under the direction of Mrs. Shell, offers an active drama program. Besides the Spring and Fall plays, the Drama Classes have presented a few Greek plays. These plays give students an opportunity to perform before the rest of the student body as well as a large group of adults.

In addition to Speech, the department now offers Reading to students to help them improve their schoolwork and at the same time aid them in their personal reading.

Classics Are Read By Upperclassmen

Inherent in the philosophy of the English Department at Wakefield is a recognition of the individual differences of the student and the belief that a student should be working at the optimum of his potential but should not feel defeated by extreme pressures of keen competition. The students in the upperclass have broadened their reading experiences through studying some of the great works such as Macbeth, Beowulf, and Paradise Lost.

In addition, many students have been offered a course in the English-Art-Music Seminar. This course is concerned with linking the studies of these through disciplines and to teach students to better appreciate all of them.

Seminar students are given the chance to see and hear many of the fine artists in the Washington area as well as an opportunity to take the annual trip to New York. The program is concerned with giving students a strong English background in preparation for their future whatever it may be.

of Letters Is Opened

This year an attempt was made to introduce new and more enriching material into the junior English curriculum. Gerald Groves and Lettie Arnold combined American Literature and American History in order to avoid repetition, thereby offering more time for topics of interest to the student. Concentration of study has been in Puritanism, Westward movement, modern literature, and composition.

Tenth-grade English has been a year of transition with review of grammar and oral communication, and a preview of the novel and the drama. Along with various parallel readings, the sophomore class read Silas Marner and Julius Caesar.

Math Prepares Students for Future

Headed by Mrs. Ruth Hoy, the thirteen teachers in the Mathematics Department are continuing to teach modern mathematics to the students at Wakefield. About sixty percent of the student body is taking mathematics, which includes such courses as Calculus, Mathematical Analysis, Senior Mathematics, Algebra III, and Geometry.

The addition of the new wing released a room for the Mathematics department to be used as a mathematics laboratory. A special course, "Computer Programming," sponsored by George Washington University and the Signal Corps was also offered for interested Senior boys.

Advancements Through Science

For the past year, the Science Department has tried to develop in the student an understanding of major scientific principles, competence in the use of the scientific method and desirable attitudes and interests related to science. Some curriculum changes have been made this year. P.S.S.C. Physics, the chemistry study program and the new biology courses are examples of these changes.

Language Labs Promote Fluency

This year's Foreign Language Department is composed of over 41% of Wakefield's students with the most popular of the languages being French. The staff consists of a full time secretary and eleven teachers. Because the department now offers four foreign lanugage laboratories, a student is able to develop a more fluent language. He has a choice of either four years of Latin and German or five years of French and Spanish.

Students Prepare for Business

It would be a lot easier if we could count on our fingers.

The Business Education Department is staffed with eleven teachers and two educational secretaries. Approximately 1200 students make up the enrollment of such classes as typing, business law, business machines and economics. Cooperative training programs which enable the student to secure a stable job are also provided.

During the past year the Business Education Department equipped a double typing classroom with IBM electric typewriters, and added an electronic shorthand laboratory. This laboratory has a transmitter and three tape recorders, which gives the student an opportunity to progress at his own dictation speed.

With the increase of staff in the Art Department, the program has enlarged considerably. The Art, Music, English-Seminar program, along with Art I, II, III, and IV, and the fifth period Commercial Design classes have expanded into a sequence of Fine Art courses to enrich students in this field.

Mrs. Krout gives assistance to Mary Oliver and Judy Jenkins while Donna Jones eyes the door in preparation for her get-away.

The extra curricular activities of the Music Department have been quite numerous this year with the various music festivals in the community. Boys Join Home Economics

Home Economics prepares young people for marriage and raising a family. In preparing for these, girls as well as boys, study cooking, clothing, housing, and the family, although boys are limited to the foods area only.

Today Home Economics is also extremely important, for it plays a large role in Journalism, research, and retailing. Courses offered relating to these and other areas are Homemaking I and II, Senior Homemaking, and other general courses concerned with clothing, the home, marriage, and raising children.

Sometimes school-work can lead to enjoyment in Home Economics.

Students Prepare for Industry

The Industrial Arts Department this year has offered a total of twenty-five different courses along with Woodworking and Metal-working. Many of the courses require intricate and detailed work, such as, Drafting, Electronics, Graphic Arts, Jewelmaking, and Lapidary. The Industrial Arts Department has occupied two new faculties in the extension to the building in which a new expanded Auto Mechanics course and General Shop are being taken. The Industrial Arts Department with an enrollment of five hundred and twenty students and a more extensive automotive course is expanding to meet the practical needs of the students.

Striving for Sportsmanship

No significant changes have taken place in this year's Boys Physical Education Department. Good sportsmanship is still the main stress of Wakefield's Physical Education Staff. While football, basketball, softball, volleyball, and wrestling are the most popular with the boys, sophomores are required to spend part of the year in Health. Here they not only learn the functions of the body but are taught the effects of narcotics, alcohol, and tobacco.

Physical Fitness Is The Goal

Physical fitness of the individual is stressed this year in the Girls' Physical Education Department and is provided for sophomores and junior girls by a six-teacher staff.

Sophomore girls spend eighteen weeks of the school year in physical education, participating in such activities as basketball, field hockey, volleyball, badminton, trampoline, body mechanics, and softball. A similar amount of time is provided for health study wherein units on alcohol, narcotics, tobacco, first aid, and mental health are presented. Junior girls receive instruction in physical education for the entire year with a leaning toward the individual activities of archery, golf, tennis, and modern dance.

In co-existence with the division system, the Upperclass Council is now in its second year. The Council, guided by Mrs. Mary Maré, is composed of 2 representatives from each of the three divisions. These representative then choose the officers of the Council which include President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer. As Mrs. Maré has stated, "These Council members are not class officers, they are representatives of each division in the Upperclass.

In coordinating the activities of the Upperclass, the Council has many responsibilities. These include such duties as collecting class dues, arranging and financing the Upperclass Prom, and arranging the Baccalaureate Commencement. This year as an added attraction the Council has begun an Upperclass newspaper, the Totem Pole.

The success of the Upperclass activities has shown the desire and sincerity with which this Council has worked. Congratulations to the Class of '65.

National Merit Scholarship Finalists

The class of '65 produced five National Merit Scholarship Finalists from Wakefield. Catherine Gregg, a recruit from North Carolina completes the group. Aside from the tremendous honor of being a Merit Scholar, these students exemplify and epitomize the of '65, in their interest and participation in athletic and extracurricular affairs, a class which has set records in the academic, athletic, and extra-curricular worlds of Wakefield.

To qualify as a Semi-Finalist, an outstanding score on the Merit Scholarship examination, as well as a superior academic record, must be achieved. Twenty-seven students from Wakefield received letters of commendation for their high grades on the Nations Merit Scholarship Test; while John DeZonia, Catherine Gregg, Sam Leader, Pamela McLucas, Pat Oglesby, and Steve Schecter are scholars at Wakefield shall offer the future.

Fortunately all the Semi-Finalists qualified as Finalists because of their excellent college board scores and endorsements from Mr. Johnson, with Pam McLucas being Wakefield's highest scorer. They will be eligible to receive scholarships ranging from $500 to $6,000 for a four year stay in college.

In an effort to recognize students whose loyalty and contributions to Wakefield frequently are unnoticed, The STARSTONE staff of '65 introduced a new award. The recipients of the award were chosen by the faculty through the process of nomination, consideration of the nominees, and finally voting.

Seven students were chosen for the STARSTONE award this year. We hope this newly established recognition will become a tradition through the spirit we intended.

Patrick Henry Division

Athletics for all!

In the second year of the Division system, Patrick Henry Division is one of the most active. Under the direction of Mrs. Maré, the division is vigorously competing for the best division award that is given in the spring.

One of the division's biggest projects was its Carnival held in the beginning of the year. Not only did all the division's homerooms participate in the activity, but the event drew many students from the other two divisions. Other major activities held were a skating party and a cookout for the H Division students, and the introduction of a talent show in January. Since the division's dues were collected early this year, this money was used for school projects as well as fun.

Through service to the school and social activities, Patrick Henry Division was able to complete a very successful year.

Mr. Richard Neal, J Division Director.

Mrs. Gertrude Golla, Division Secretary.

Mrs. Marlene Herzig, Council Sponsor.

Trent Stevenson, Glen Hall and Pat Clift manage to have fun at a council meeting.

After what was said to be a "slow start," J Division progressed rapidly. Under the guidance of their new division director, Mr. Richard Neal, the students were more cooperative and enthusiastic than before.

In order to preserve the ideals of a democratic government, a five student Steering Committee was organized. The committee held assemblies to offer students the opportunity to decide whether a government was necessary, and if so, to determine the most suitable type of government.

Unlike the other two divisions, J Division students decided upon a seven-man council composed of three upperclassmen and four underclassmen who were advised by twenty-four homeroom representatives.

Mr. Richard Neal discusses problems with Pat Clift, Trent Stevenson and John Coakley.

John Coakley, Trent Stevenson, Glen Hall, Vicki Blackwell, Jerry Brown, Diane Kawolchick and Pat Clift, the entire council.

Light Horse Harry Lee Division Continues

L Division office is kept decorated.

Sally Abbot, Secretary; Bill Griffith, Secretary of Athletics; Doris Dewton, Treasurer.

In the effort to win the Division Award, Lee Division is trying to provide for constructive student participation in Wakefield activities.

Under the guidance of Division Principal, Henry Renz, the officers of Lee are offering these activities. The division assemblies have included an education speaker series, music programs, and the introduction of The Light Horse Harry Lee Scholarship for a deserving Senior. There has also been the traditional Lee Division Fun Nite, free Bermuda Day tickets, and the addition of reduced rate student movies. Senior boys have won the Divisional Football Championship.

During the pre-Valentine Day season, Lee Division sold singing Valentines during the three lunch periods. The profits were used for the Light Horse Harry Lee Scholarship.

Viewing the participation of Lee's students, it is apparent that Light Horse Harry kept on the move.

The Individual Participates . . .

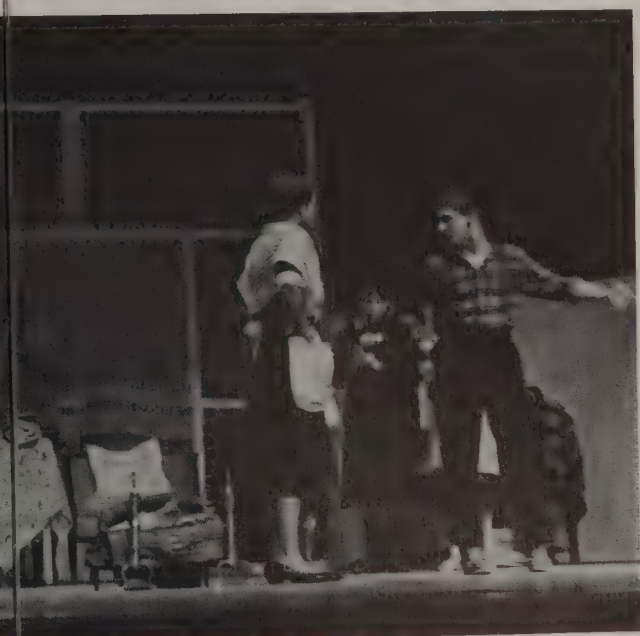

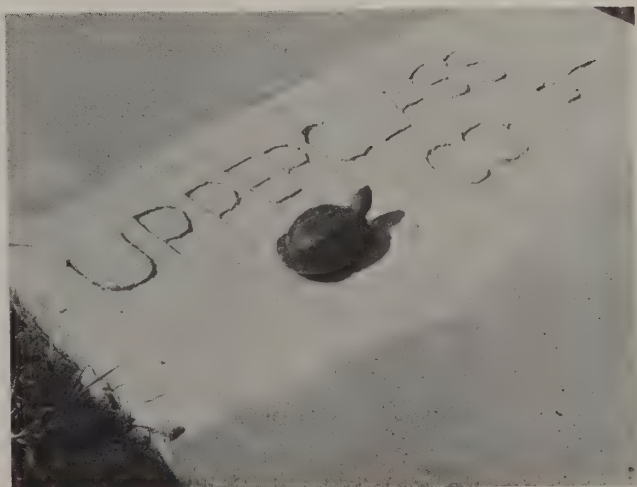

The student expresses himself through the activities in which he participates.

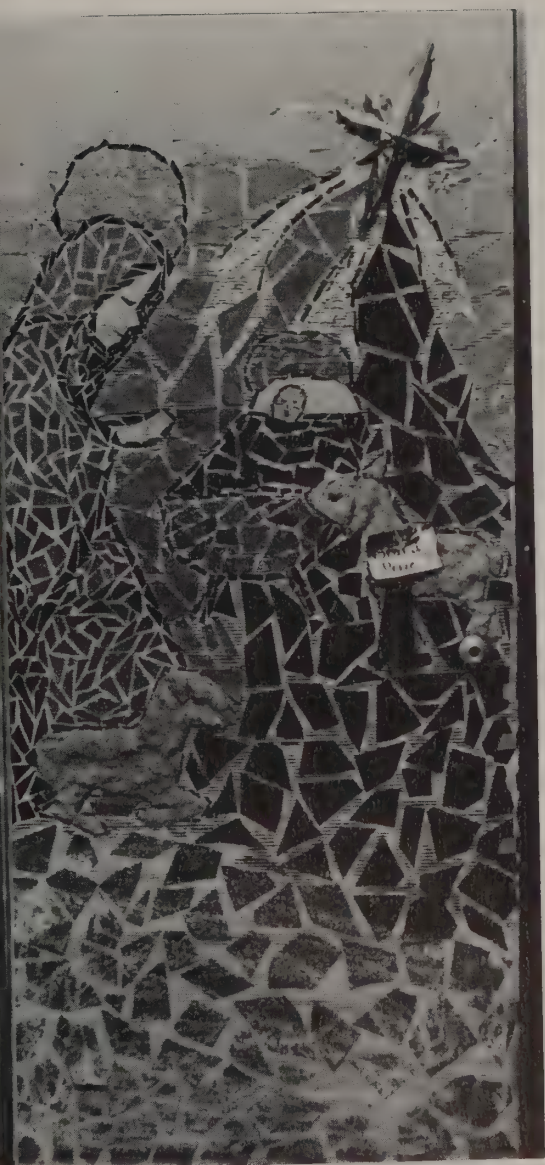

The world of Wakefield accommodates the individual as he expresses himself in the realm of his choice; one, a service to the school and community; another, a role in the voice of the student body; and a third supports his school's physical activities. Whoever he is and whatever he chooses, Wakefield belongs to the individual.

Each Warrior in His Own Right

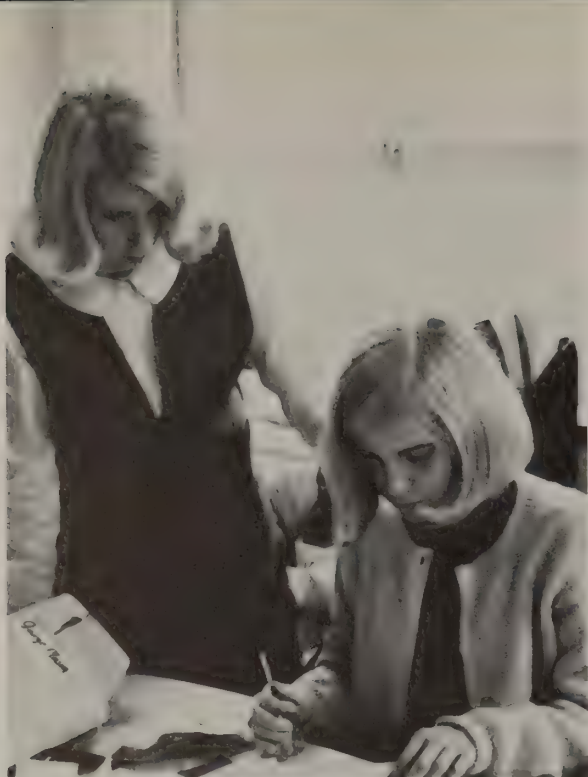

. . . . With His Own Interest

The Wakefield student participates in the spectrum of Wakefield's extracurricular life. The gaiety and highlights of the festive Latin Honor Society's "Orgy" contrasts the solemnity and honor of The National Honor Society Induction. The liaison of the two is typified by the Christmas door contest in which homerooms decorate their doors with the intensity and skill so characteristic of a Warrior in an atmosphere of cheer.

S.C.A. is

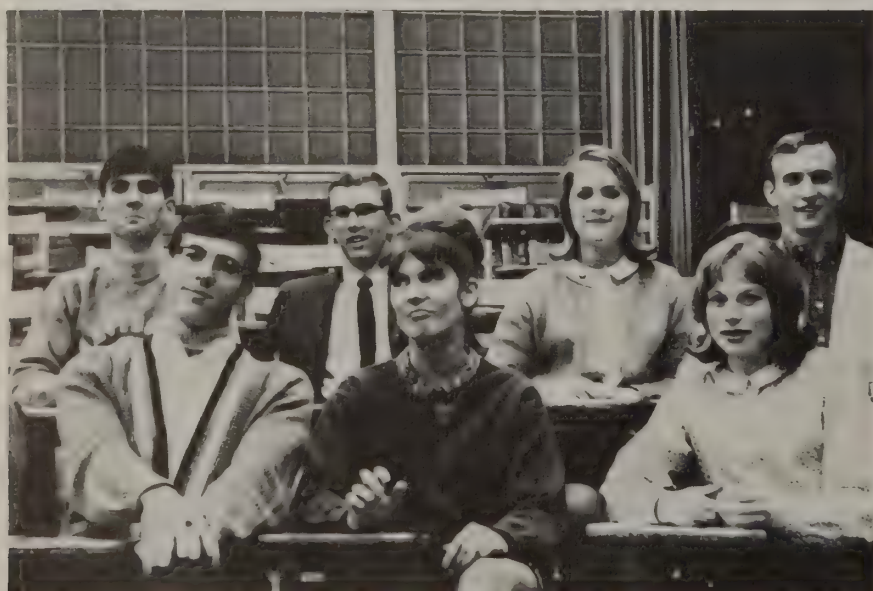

Linda Lydon and Mickey Cross arrange SCA notes for distribution to homerooms.

President Jerry Brown contemplates all the serious aspects of student government.

The S.C.A., Student Cooperative Association of Wakefield, is perhaps the most active and well known organization in the school, with officers, representatives, and cabinet members who deal with the various aspects of school life. A listing of all their activities is as impressive as it is impossible to do here. Among their more important projects the S.C.A. sponsored and coordinated the Senior Alumni Dance, published Freedom Foundation reports, and published the student handbook and directory. They also sponsored the Forensic contest, and the Safe Teen Drivers Club. Perhaps the most outstanding activity this year involved the revision of their constitution, which has not been done in the many years the constitution has been in effect.

Ted Prim has Lynn Holzapple, Recording Secretary, Miss Nancy George, Sponsor, and Meg Pherson, Corresponding Secretary, laughing over the last Freedom Foundation Report.

Meg Pherson, Corresponding Secretary in charge of the AFS program, chats with Elena Maurin and Nancy Loy who was Wakefield's participant in the Brazilian program.

Elena Maurin relates her American experiences at the SCA American Field Service Assembly, as Meg Pherson, Nancy Loy, Glen Mattox, and Charles Carpenter listen.

AFS Program Brings Countries Together

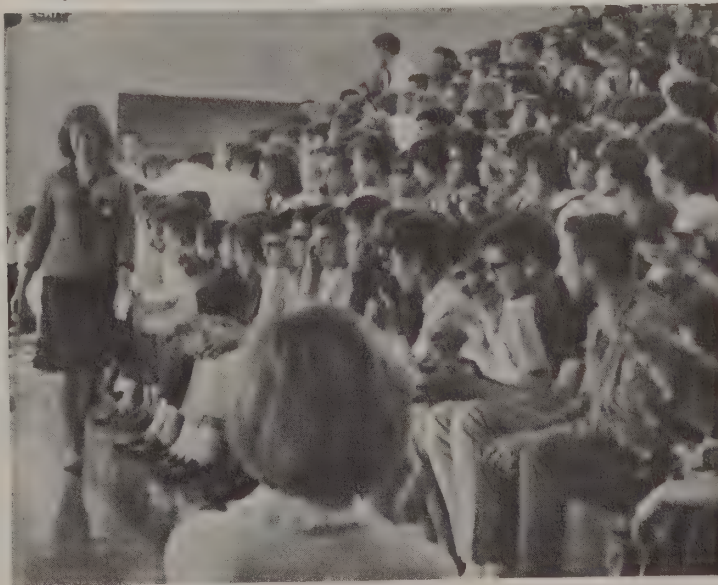

Elena Maurin is Wakefield's import from Argentina under the traditional AFS Program.

The American Field Service Program provides American students as well as students of foreign countries with an opportunity to expand and broaden their knowledge. Writers write about people of different lands and artists capture its beauty on canvas but to understand a foreign country one must live and learn through experience. This is what the American Field Service Program does; it provides this opportunity for eager students to live and learn in a foreign country.

This year Wakefield had the privilege of participating in the AFS program. Elena Maurin of Argentina spent the '64-'65 school year observing the students of Wakefield. During her stay here, Elena lived with Karin Johnson and her family.

After being presented her activity card, Elena Maurin is applauded by her adopted school mates.

Sue Morrison contemplates her fate as the yearbook takes shape.

Starstone, A Year Long Stretch

The production of the STARSTONE is a year long series of deadlines, scheduling, writing, pictures, periodic breakdowns, and ulcers. Beginning in June of 1964 the staff scheduled Senior pictures and traveled to Nashville, Tennessee, for layout and art plans with the printer. The Class, Activities, Faculty, and Sports Sections had deadlines in December and February. But the work was never finished for each section had to correct proofs from the publisher. Each participant in the production of the yearbook averaged from 10 to 15 hours a week in and out of school. The STARSTONE is no sudden occurrence as most students assume, but the product of exhausting and frustrating work.

Signal Transmits Opinions

The Signal is the bi-weekly official newspaper of Wakefield, and as such attempts to provide coverage and to voice opinions on all student body affairs. This year the editorials have taken definite stands on many controversial issues, and letters to the editor have reflected student opinion on many matters.

Although a permanent staff is responsible for the publication, journalism students have written stories and covered beats for the newspaper.

Only through the staff's dedication and diligent work were we able to have an informative and well-written newspaper.

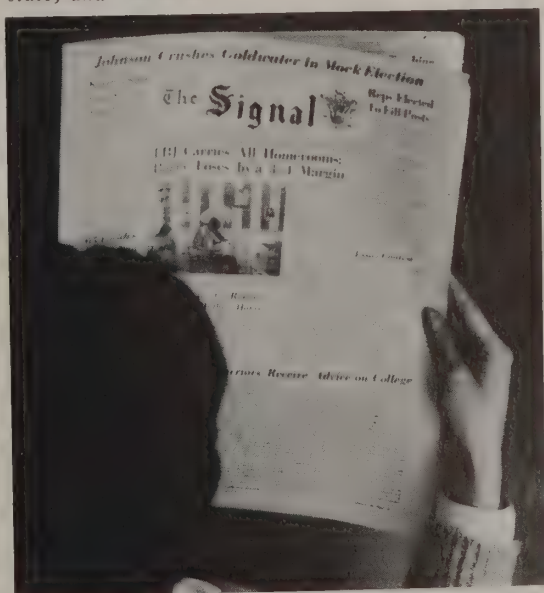

Mrs. Jacks, Barbara Bertelsman, and Eddie Schonfeld undertake the tedious task of preparing the newspaper for press.

As Editor of the Signal, Dave Eberhart has many duties, one of which is typing.

Every two weeks, the Signal is distributed and informs the Warriors of events in school, community, state, and universe.

Cherie Weeks awaits approval of her news story before the final draft is made.

Pendulum Swings Way Out

Michelle Deakin and Jamie Wanns check final copy.

As a pendulum swings from one side to the other so does Wakefield's only literary magazine swing—from one topic to another. Each warrior is encouraged to compose and contribute to the Pendulum staff a work of his own creation, poetry, criticism, book reviews, creative prose, essays, or short stories. Miss Marguerite Crawford and a faithful staff of students selected, revised, and prepared for publication the best of the contributions.

Much planning and deliberation exists in the production of the Pendulum. All of the art works are produced in the school's art department. But before any requests are made of the art students, the Pendulum's staff plans and illustrates the magazine layout. Along with the art designs, the staff is concerned with the literary format in planning for the magazine's contents. Then the responsibility of sales, money, and distribution is presented. The Pendulum workers concern themselves with one of these areas but still work in unity as a staff.

The Pendulum belongs to Wakefield because each writing reflects the emotions, anxieties, and thoughts existing throughout the student body.

This year the Pendulum staff produced the most outstanding literary magazine in its twelve-year history.

Guides Show-Off the School

The Wakefield Guides is a vital group in the establishment of good relations for Wakefield High School. This year's group consists of thirty-five students under the direction and sponsorship of Mrs. Mary Mare. All of these thirty-five students are on the honor roll, this being one of the requirements of membership.

The Guides' main duty is conducting tours of the school for any and all visitors. Their guide service was available during College night for those students who attended from other schools. The Guides also served as ushers for the fall play and the Christmas Concert. Visiting Japanese educators were among the foreign visitors served by the group. Besides the distinguished visiting Japanese educators, visitors from the Department of the Interior Visiting Fund added to our list of foreign guests.

National Honor Society

S. Schecter, President; D. Dewton, Vice-President; J. Grossman, Treasurer; D. Bernstein, Secretary.

Membership in the National Honor Society is one of the most desired positions in Wakefield. To qualify, a student must maintain high grades in his subjects. Sophomores must have straight A's, juniors must achieve an average of 3.5, and seniors are required to maintain a 3.2 average. In addition to the stringent grade average, each applicant must secure a teacher's recommendation. Having surpassed the rigid requirements and inducted into the society, the honor of being a member begins.

At the Society meetings, many activities and programs are discussed. The members conduct a tutoring service in all subjects. At the annual College Night, NHS members are in charge of guiding the college representatives to their assigned rooms.

Many prominent and interesting people come to Wakefield by invitation of the National Honor Society. A growing interest in politics brought Representative Jonathan P. Bingham of New York, one of the NHS speakers, to our school.

The intelligence of the national honor student is an attribute of Wakefield, but his contribution as a Warrior plays a bigger part in the activity of Wakefield.

Mu Alpha Theta Counts on Brains

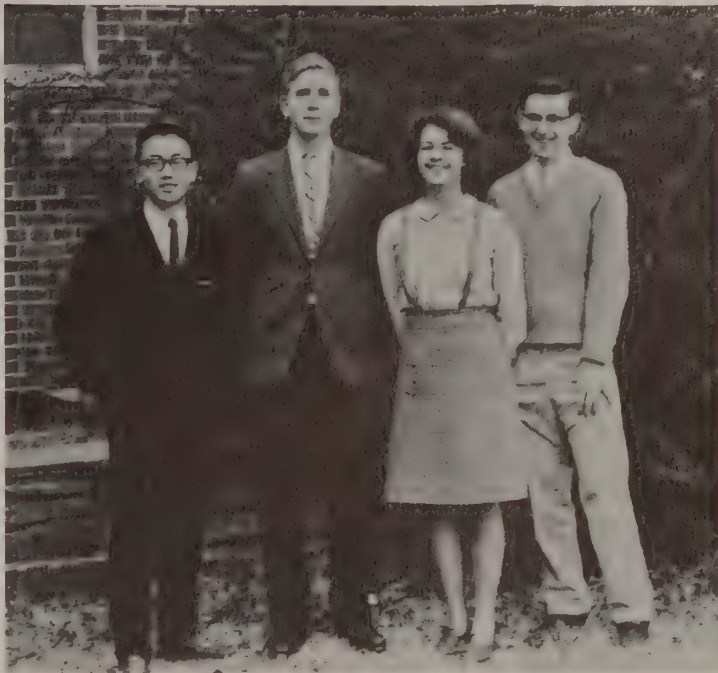

Mu Alpha Theta is a national organization which honors students who have shown superior ability in their math courses. Wakefield's chapter of the National Mathematics Honor Society is comprised of ninety active and ten associate members all of whom have completed Algebra I and Plane Geometry with at least a 3.5 average for the two years. An overall B average in all other subjects is also required.

A main function of the society is its tutoring service which aids any student requesting help. This service is supervised by Wakefield's Math Department chairman, Mrs. Ruth Hoy, who has been with Wakefield for the twelve years it has served Arlington.

Mu Alpha Theta is one of the most active societies. In order to improve skills and score high on the annual national math ability contest, a problem-solving study course was instituted this year. In December, Fort Belvoir research center demonstrated its I.B.M. computer to a group of visiting members during a field trip. Speakers, including Mr. Stover, Dr. Oliphant, and Mr. Buttermore have addressed the meetings this year, making them interesting as well as informative.

Another major undertaking is the annual math contest held in the spring with prizes financed by donations from the Old Dominion Bank. The test is devised and scored by the members themselves and is probably the most beneficial of its functions for the student body.

Officers of Mu Alpha Theta are Chi Ahn, Sam Leader, Sharon Beyless, and Jerry Grossman.

French Honor Society "Visits" France

S. Leader, Treasurer; D. Bernstein, Vice-President; Mrs. Naomi Kulakow, Sponsor; R. Wickel, President; V. Piovica, Secretary.

Excellent students in French are eligible for membership in the French Honor Society. Wherever French Honor Society members meet, a passer-by might have thought he was in the center of gay Paris rather than Arlington. Every meeting and project bubbled with activity as French knowledge was enhanced with American enthusiasm. Honor society members availed themselves to Warriors needing help in French. Any student struggling through the language and who sought help received personal assistance from one of their volunteers. From a slate of guest speakers, society members became acquainted with French people, their emotions and activities, and the peculiar little customs belonging to France. Mr. Charles Sedgewick, former Presidential interpreter in the State Department, was one such speaker. It was a privilege for the FHS to hear his story. Another delightful source for "inside" information was Mrs. Naomi Kulakow, the sponsor. She could bring all of France into the meeting when she related her various experiences encountered as a resident there.

Wakefield's last play was given by FHS members. Although it was entirely in French, both actors and audience enjoyed the cultural endeavor.

Latin Honor Society has "Orgy"

The Latin Honor Society is sponsored by Mrs. Helen Fenton. It has created activities which have been enjoyed by the school as well as the club members. In December the Latin Honor Society members held a Roman Banquet. Everyone who attended was required to wear a toga and eat the Latin foods in true Roman style, which included reclining at the banquet table. This annual affair was certainly one which will long be remembered.

The society has programmed meetings. Twice a month members have food sales for the purpose of raising money for their many projects.

Other activities of the Latin Honor Society included a picnic for the members in May and listening to guest speakers.

To complete a successful year, the Latin Honor Society held its yearly spring induction of new members.

S.H.S. Travels Spanish Circuit

The year '64-'65 was just as busy as last year for the Spanish Honor Society. At their meetings were shown many vivid and interesting films of Spain and the Spanish people as well as adventure stories spoken in the native Spanish language. Visits to various Spanish restaurants in the area were among the large number of activities on the Spanish Honor Society's agenda.

In December, the Society held a Spanish Christmas party featuring the foods and games of the country. This event turned out to be quite a festive affair. Throughout the year the Society made field trips to various spots where they were entertained by flamenco dancers and other entertainers, among them the famous Jose Greco.

Qualifications for the society were at least three semesters of Spanish, a recommendation from a Spanish teacher, and an overall B average. These prerequisites limited the Society to a membership of 15 members.

The Spanish Honor Society soaks in the atmosphere at a Spanish Restuarant.

German Honor Society Marches On

In order to broaden its members knowledge of culture and language, the German Honor Society has participated in many activities during the school year. In the fall the society held an October Fest Party, later followed by a visit to the Bavarian Restaurant, "Old Europe." A visit to the German Embassy proved to be a rewarding trip, acquainting the members with many facts about Germany.

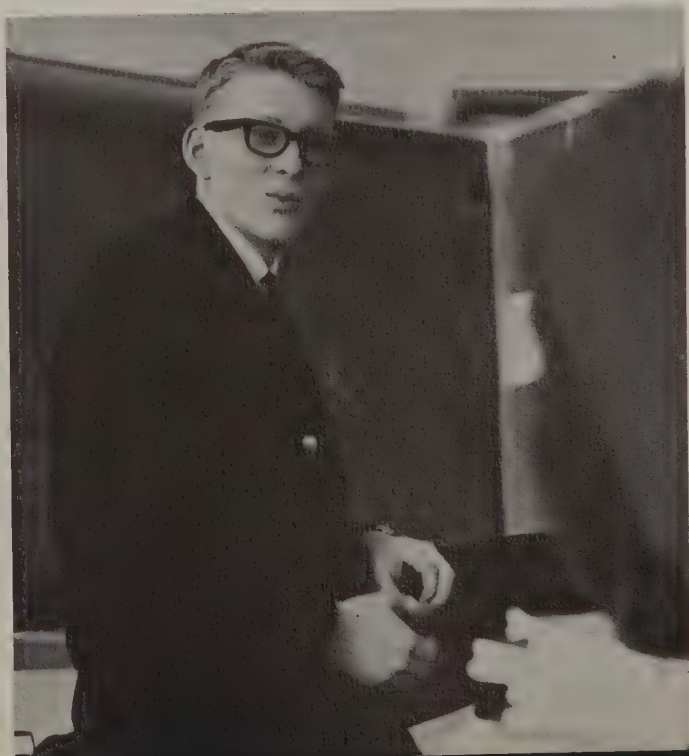

The remainder of the club's activities, although not directly German, offered the members an opportunity to speak among themselves, thus improving the knowledge of German. The occasions for such group discussions were a skating party and a spring picnic.

A great number of the members have outside school experience in German, particularly through overseas armed forces, which enables them to maintain their A and B averages. This background makes for varied meetings with slide lecturers taken abroad. The mixture of both school and foreign land German speakers is beneficial to all society members, and geographical and customs supplement material.

German Honor Society members excitedly await the arrival of their guest speaker.

Keyettes Dedicated to Wakefield

K. Meyers, Recording Secretary; P. Taul, Vice-President; J. Lieber, President; H. Sparkes, Historian, M. Furcolow, Corresponding Secretary.

Under the supervision and guidance of the Arlington Kiwanis Club and Miss Rosanne Geferoff, the Wakefield Keyettes added another profitable year to their fine reputation.

The girls began their prosperous year before the regular school session by selling ice cream to summer school students. Throughout the football season, the Keyettes sponsored buses to away games. In addition, the club sponsored the dance of "The Great Pumpkin" and their annual Keyette Book Fair.

In order to become a member of the Keyettes, a girl must be a junior with a 3.0 average. She must also be a conscientious worker whose loyalty to Wakefield is affirmed by a teacher's recommendation.

Joan Lieber closes the meeting while "good byes" are exchanged between the guest speaker and Keyette members.

Regenerated Keys Return to Scene

This year the Wakefield Key Club was returned to active status as a service group at Wakefield. Sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club, the club stresses excellence of character and scholarship.

The boys served as guides at Wakefield's College Night and gave a sizeable contribution to the scholarship fund. However, their main project was the co-sponsoring of "The Great Pumpkin Dance" with the Keyettes. To make their year a success, they participated in a money-making booth at Wakefield Day.

U. S. I. L. Continues Tradition

In past and present years, many posts in student government have been contested and won by U.S.I.L. members. This is the oldest-established political party in Wakefield that welcomes anyone willing to join in and continue its tradition. This year, U.S.I.L. conducted a "U.S.I.L. Secret Student Contest" which generated enthusiasm in all of the grades. Top-level organization is the secret to U.S.I.L.'s continued popularity.

Quill and Scroll Scribbles On Wakefield's Quill and Scroll Society is composed of 25 members who work on the various publications of Wakefield. Members must be in the upper one-third of their class and have a recommendation from the sponsor of their publication.

Wakefield's chapter of Quill and Scroll is named after writer John Dos Passos who previously lived in Virginia and Washington, D. C. Since the Society's members spend many extra hours working on their publications, the society is inactive, meeting only to initiate new members and elect new officers.

Art Honor Society Decorates Halls

Bulletin boards and show cases spotted along the second floor have been artistically kept by members of the Art Honor Society. All members of this club are extremely talented and have taken several years of the art courses offered in school, receiving high grades. The Art Honor Society learns new techniques at the meetings, then branches out into the community on sketching excursions. This year the Art Society has been productive to the members as well as for Wakefield.

The Rocket Society Tracks Geminis

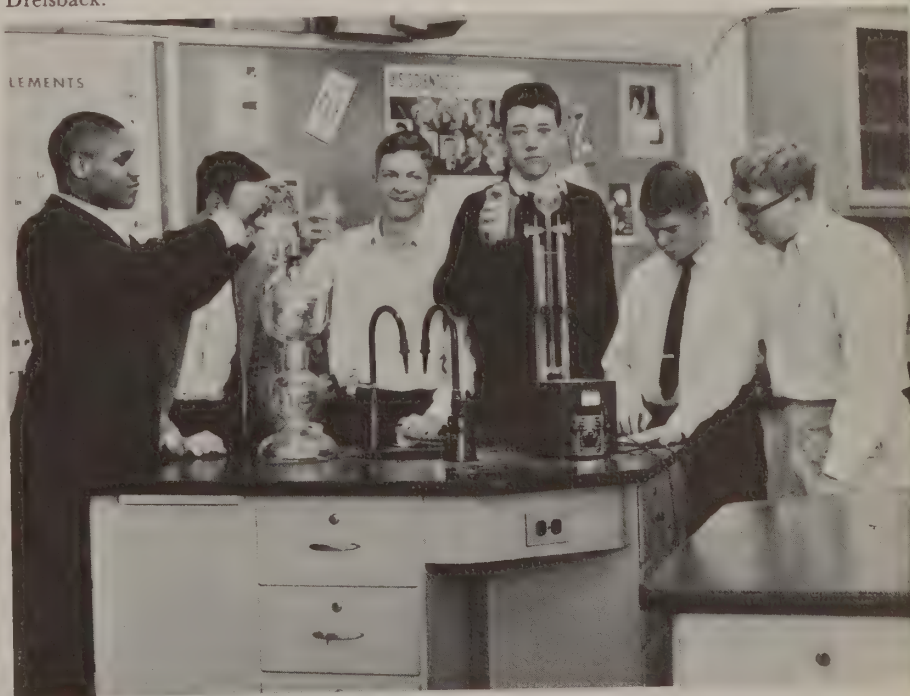

The Rocket Society of Wakefield High School is composed of three divisions: astronomy, rocketry, and electronics. The club's first activity of the year was a drive to recruit new members. During Wakefield's Club Week the members of the Society presented a demonstration of closed circuit television in the cafeteria.

In order to benefit the members of the club, the activities of the year were divided into the three different divisions. As a project, the astronomy group repaired and cleaned the telescope in the Senior Court. This project helped them to view the different astronomical events occurring this year.

In an effort to gain more knowledge about ham radios, the electronics division improved and expanded the club's ham radio. The rocketry division displayed its talents by launching its own vehicle. An end of the year project which involved the whole club was the radio tracking of the Gemini flights as they passed over the United States.

Nine faithful science students made the Chemical Society into a success this year. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Neal Haygood, members have come to understand the intricate language of science through intensified experimentation. They supplemented their experiments by visiting various scientific institutions. During the year the society was host to Doctor John Taylor, Director of the Analytical Branch of Bureau of Standards, who increased the Society's knowledge about the chemistry of today.

French Club Provides Experiences

Marilyn Crowley tells the girls about the French movie which was seen during the meeting.

The French Club, under the direction of Mr. Fred MacIntyre, has striven through a variety of activities to deepen an interest in French culture and language. During their monthly meetings, members have been provided with many valuable experiences. Besides their annual visit to a local French restaurant, they also enjoyed viewing numerous French films and slides. Other meetings included participation in a French Bingo game, a song fest, and in planning a Christmas Basket for a French family. The weekly meetings which were conducted in French involved the members and enabled them to improve their ability to converse in the language. The meetings also helped the club members to improve their understanding and fluency in French. Through their many activities the club members attained a knowledge of France and its people.

Spanish Club Explores New Worlds

The Spanish Club this year has continued its yearly endeavors of promoting interest in the language and culture of Hispanic countries. This interest is carried out by participation in many varied and interesting activities. In order to gain more knowledge about Spanish music, club members journeyed to Lisner Auditorium to hear the great Spanish guitarist, Segovia, and to see Jose Greco, the famous Flamenco dancer. With the addition of Latin American speakers and slide shows, club members learned and gained an understanding of the colorful activities and mores of the Spanish people. The culinary customs of the Latin countries were again sampled in area restaurants such as La Fonda and El Bogedon. These annual trips not only give club members a chance to sample Spanish food, but also contributed to fun for the members. With these extracurricular projects the club members have gained new insights into the life of our Latin American neighbors to the South.

Future Teachers of America

Students planning on becoming teachers are encouraged to join the Future Teachers of America. Through this club, students are acquainted with knowledge and special techniques of a good teacher. The members participated in a program at Claremont Elementary school assisting teachers with their plans for the following week. In the winter the club visited with retarded children at the George Mason Center which contributed to a very successful year.

Rescue Squad on the Alert

Training with the Arlington County Fireman, the Rescue Club worked this year with the Red Cross Club in caring for the injured. Included in the services to the school were the administering of first aid and participation in athletic events, and fire and civil defense drills and the annual first aid contest with Washington-Lee. Standing by to treat the sick and injured, the Wakefield Rescue Club has proven to be a great service to the school.

F. H. A. Gets Cooking

Wakefield's chapter of Future Homemakers of America, marked up another outstanding year. Through the past twelve years the club has grown, expanding and improving its activities.

To begin the year the members held their annual Mother-Daughter Tea. This tea not only helps a mother learn about her daughter's activities but also helps her learn the latest news about Homemaking. Later the club participated in the Christmas food drive and several other school and community projects, including hostessing the Principals' Association dinner.

The weekly meetings proved most enjoyable to the club. During the meetings the girls heard many speakers and saw demonstrations on such subjects as decorating, food, and clothing. The club combined work with fun to end its twelfth year with great success.

Debate Squad Tackles Nuclear Arms

"Resolved: That nuclear weapons should be controlled by an international organization."

With such a timely and interesting resolution, our debaters could not help but have an exciting year. Much research went into the finished product, and both affirmative and negative teams developed telling arguments in support of or against the resolution.

With no members of the Varsity Squad from the previous year available, those experienced in Junior Varsity debate and some experienced debaters who joined Wakefield this year made up a talented squad that experienced excellent success in the Northern Virginia League and made highly creditable appearances at the George Washington University Discussion Conference and the Debate Tournament, the Richmond University Debate Tournament, and the American University Forensics Tournament. From an original group of approximately thirty-five, sixteen debaters emerged to carry the banner for Wakefield through a rewarding year which produced its fair share of victories, keeping our school in the vanguard in the League and the State.

Dance Club Nets from Nightlies

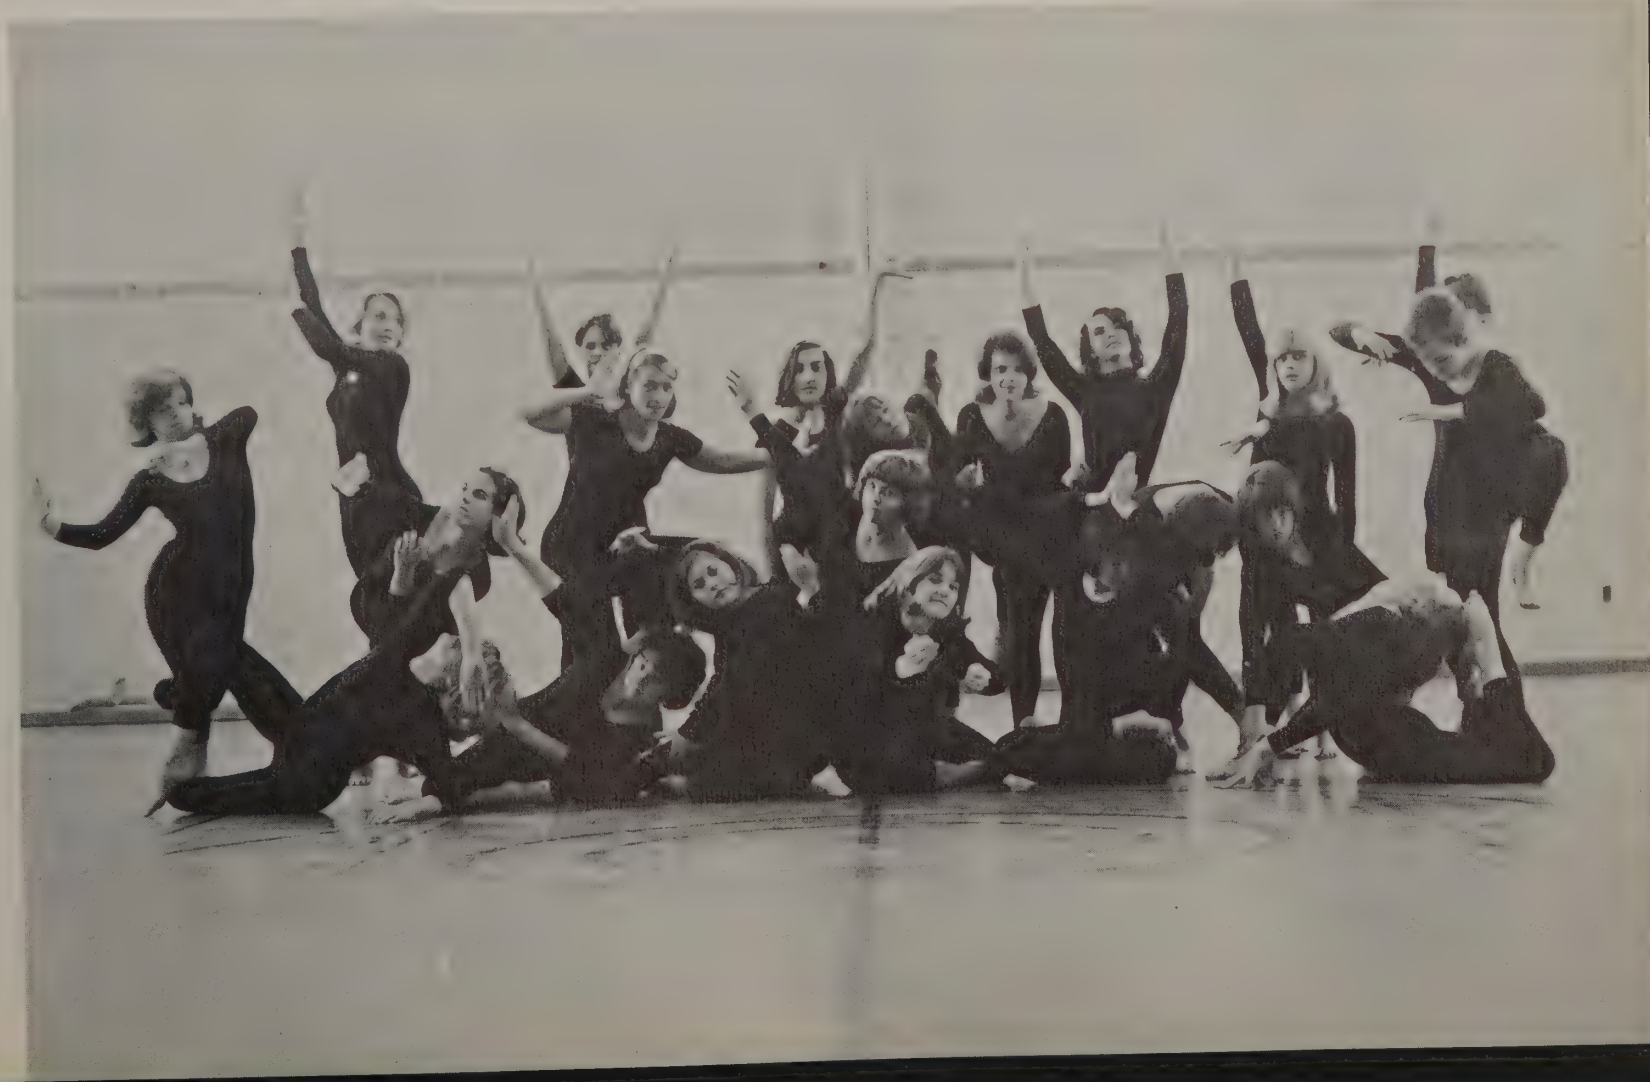

The Modern Dance Club's aims are to provide recreational activity for its members, to promote an active interest in expressive dancing, and to improve the skill of its members. Under the direction of Mrs. Wilma Dando, club members developed their skills in interpretive dancing. However, they also included other types of dancing such as ballroom and jazz.

The members' dancing skill and knowledge was displayed during several school events, the Spring Concert being one of them.

As in preceding years, the Modern Dance Club sold the traditional red Wakefield Campus nighties, which were the talk of the school. The profit from the sale of these nighties contributed a large sum to the club's treasury.

Through the halls of Wakefield and out into the community, Wakefield Photography Club members carried their cameras capturing the world around us on film. With Mr. Morton Broffman's professional guidance, the club advanced from ordinary photography into the complicated field of lighting exposure, shutter speeds, developing film, and printing pictures. The purpose for this club has been attained, and will always be remembered by each member.

Bridge Society Enjoys Learning

Wakefield's Bridge Society is one of the few groups which meets just for its own enjoyment. Its general purpose is to provide the members with a chance to learn and improve their games of contract bridge. Although most matches are held among members, the society has extended invitations to various other schools for competition. The matches held within the club and outside have given members the chance to improve their ability, as well as provide them with enjoyment and relaxation. Meetings are held in the evenings at homes of members.

Monogram Sports Interests

The Monogram Club is primarily interested in promoting better school spirit through increased support of the athletic teams. It is made up of boys who have earned a Varsity Wakefield athletic letter as well as varsity cheerleaders.

Besides having regular programmed meetings, the members have promoted many activities within the club which have been of great benefit to the faculty as well as the student body. During the football season the Monogram Club contributed to the sport by selling refreshments during the games at concession stands and by being responsible for the publishing of the football programs. Later in the year the members ran a coat check at the basketball games and at the wrestling matches. They also ushered at the Northern Virginia Wrestling Tournament. Perhaps the most important service that the Monogram Club provides for Wakefield is the monitoring of the halls during lunch. The club completed a successful year with the presentation of letters at the Spring Awards Assembly.

Rifle Club Arms Safety

In its seventh active year, the purpose of the Wakefield Rifle Club is to provide an understanding of arms safety and marksmanship. Under the direction of Sgt. John K. Gels of the Air Force, the club, composed of both boys and girls, held weekly meetings at Fort Meyer in Arlington. Among themselves the team members competed for the "High Shooter" award and held meets with other schools having Rifle Clubs.

"Gym" Club Exercises Co-ordination

One night a week, Gymnastic Club members gather in the boys gym to exercise on the trampoline, tumbling mats, vaulting box, and side-horse. Through participation in these varied sports, members receive physical benefit while developing skill and co-ordination. Anyone can join the club and anyone can bring their "sweat-pants" to a meeting. Aside from personal benefit and enjoyments, members exhibited their talent in several shows.

Swim Club Strokes Success

Three weeks after school began, interested swimmers joined to form the Swim Club, sponsored by Mrs. Camille Almy. For about three months club members met, practicing and improving their strength and strokes at the Alexandria Y.M.C.A. and the Northern Virginia Aquatic Club.

Then in January, the members' strength, agility, and speed was tested. Wakefield's Swim Club participated in meets, swimming against teams such as W & L, Falls Church, Yorktown, and Lee. Before the Swim Clubs' season closed, area high school swimming teams competed in the All-Star Meet.

To increase funds for next year, the Swim Club sponsored a dance after the G. W. basketball victory, which merited the same success as their achievements in competitive swim meets.

Mrs. Almy, Jay Fitzgerald, and Monica Mulcahy work out details for the next meet.

The Wakefield Independent Party, in its second competing year as a political party, increased its minority in the SCA after an overwhelming victory in the fall elections. The party, in order to accommodate Division governments, branched out and formed three separate subordinate division parties. The outstanding contributor to the SCA in legislation and organization, the dynamic party continued its tradition of responsive student representation. WIP is active in all phases of Wakefield life. The party participated in the sophomore orientation and held bi-weekly open meetings for interested students. Its bulletin board with pictures of the week was of particular interest to students. Representatives from WIP travelled to neighboring schools explaining the Wakefield party system and promoting interest in student government.

The club members this year participated in the District, County, and State Conventions at Groveton, W-L, and Roanoke. Also, the club contributed to the Christmas spirit with an annual Christmas basket.

D. E. Distributes Education

Members of the D. E. Club learn early in life the rules for success in the business world. By enrolling in the Distributive Education program, students attend class half of the day, then assume their positions as employees the rest of the day. At D. E. meetings, problems are discussed and hints given to help the student achieve his goal. The club meetings are informative as well as enjoyable.

Et Tu, Shakespeare

As a group, the members enjoy everything done at meetings, at rehearsals, and even in fund-raising functions.

The Shakespeare Society, which is now in its first year, has been organized to promote student interest in the style and works of Shakespeare. Participating in many activities, the Society has taken various field trips and benefited from record sessions and student programs.

By seeing Shakespearian movies, listening to professional recordings at meetings and acting out scenes of various Shakespeare plays, the members gain an experienced background of the works of this literary genius. The Society has also participated in the school's activities by selling candy each Friday afternoon at the end of the day. Guests and new members are encouraged to attend the meetings.

Chess Club Moves 65th Factorial

Due to the fact that there is a possibility of "1065" moves on a chess board, it is felt that the members of the Chess Club should be congratulated for their mental ability. In as much as this is not a service club, the members meet solely for their own personal enjoyment and mutual exercise. In addition to mere personal gratification, the club has brought some recognition to Wakefield through its interschool chess matches.

Chamber Music Society

The Chamber Music Society is composed of various types of string and woodwind ensembles which rehearse at school and in homes. Enriching, enjoying and band experiences are the three purposes of the society. Performances include appearances at the Latin Honor Society banquet and the Couples' Club Banquet of the Fairlington Methodist Church.

The more talented Warriors of Wakefield.

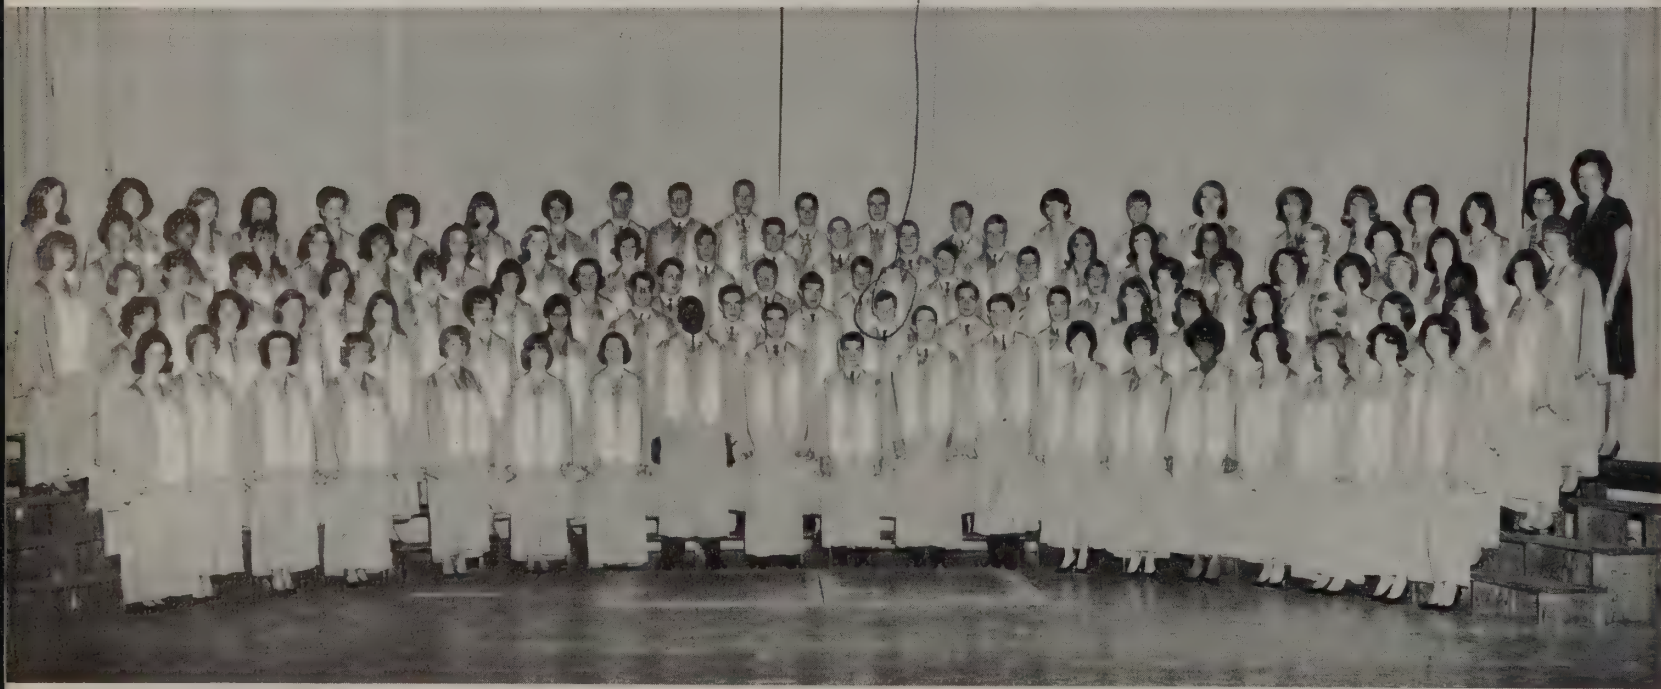

Many members of the Choir have come up through the vocal ranks receiving their basic training in the Mixed Chorus or perhaps the Girl's Chorus of Wakefield. Mrs. Donna Krout, who is director of all the singing groups, trains and brings out the quality in each voice, thus creating the fine harmonic tones of which Wakefield can always boast. In 1955-1956, the initiation of a competitive system greatly improved quality and limited membership in the Choir, although the number is still large. These advanced vocal students, who elect and are selected for Choir, gain much experience through a variety of performances. At the annual Christmas concert, which is open to the public, the Choir sang, with superb beauty, Handel's Messiah which was accompanied by Wakefield's orchestra. The effect was rousing and any lack felt about the true meaning of Christmas was fulfilled. Through daily practice and frequent singing engagements, each choir member learns new vocal techniques and gains an appreciation for choral literature.

Chorus Learns Music Basics

Having been in existence for seven years, the Wakefield Mixed Chorus has made it possible for inexperienced students from all grade levels to receive vocal training and to acquaint themselves with choral techniques and procedures. Since mixed chorus is primarily a learning group, it is one of the few musical activities that does not require an audition. The main objective is to aid the musically inclined student to develop his voice techniques. This development is accomplished by individual attention to student's needs. Most choral members are later promoted to the Choir, Girls Chorus or Wakefield Singers. Students during the year are introduced to numerous musical periods and cultures, including early secular, contemporary and classical music as well as folk songs and modern show tunes. Throughout the year the students perform at school assemblies, working frequently with the other choral groups. They also performed at the Biannual County Music Festival and the Christmas and Spring Concerts.

Mixed Chorus studies the different parts of music.

The Girls' Chorus is composed of members from all three classes of Wakefield. During this year, the girls received the benefits of individual attention from their instructor, Mrs. Donna Krout, in their preparation of a carefully chosen repertoire of music from the early church types to contemporary choral works. The Girls' Chorus provides both a cultural outlet and a means of self-expression. Its purpose is to allow musically inclined students to perform a variety of types of music and to train in vocal skills. The girls composing the chorus receive individual attention while singing selections ranging from religious music to contemporary pieces. The Girls' Chorus has been included in various Music Department programs such as the Christmas and Spring Concerts and the Biannual Country Music Festival.

By their ability and interest, the Singers are known throughout the Washington Metropolitan Area. Mrs. Donna Krout, director, says that, "interpretation and reading of choral works is an absolute necessity if the members are to sing with emotion."

In addition to two annual school concerts, the Singers performed for the Arlington County Secretarial Association Meeting, the Superintendent's Tea, the Tuberculosis Association Christmas Concert, and a special Christmas performance at the Senate Office Building.

Singers spend many hours rehearsing for their various performances.

Orchestra, A Symphony of Harmony

The Orchestra's excellence comes from the devotion of its conductor, Mr. Harvey Krasney. Every year the Orchestra grows in size, and Mr. Krasney molds the music of all the different sections into clear, harmonious sounds. The members of the orchestra are interested in music as well as extremely talented so that they willingly practice for perfection. This year, with a very large group, the orchestra attempted, with beautiful results, many difficult pieces which amazed the audiences at their performances. Every Christmas, the orchestra combines with the band and all the choruses to present a program which is not surpassed in excellence and quality until their next one. After many presentations, the orchestra closed its year of enjoyment, hard work, and accomplishments with its Spring Concert.

Musicians Band Together

The Wakefield Concert Band provides a great number of opportunities for its members as well as enjoyment for the student body, faculty and others. The band, one of two at Wakefield, has evidence a high standard of musical performances throughout the past years. During its twelve year history the group has performed for a wide range of functions, including Wakefield assemblies, programs at neighboring Junior High Schools, PTA meetings and a variety of civic projects. To prove their musical skill, members have participated in the Northern Virginia District Festival since its formation and have consistently received "superior" and "excellent" ratings.

Throughout the year students become acquainted with a variety of musical styles while developing a high standard of musical performance. By actively participating in the band activities the students not only gained a greater appreciation of music but also the experience of discipline necessary to group performance.

The Marching Band Trudges On

The marching band, composed of volunteer members from the concert and reserve bands, has become a traditional participant at Wakefield's football games and various pep rallies. It also has taken an active part in school activities and made many out-of-school appearances. These appearances include the George Washington Day Parade, Bethesda Christmas Parade, Grand Feature Parade, and the annual Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester, Virginia. The marching band is truly an active member of school and community life.

Majorettes Fling Fire

Jami Miller plays with fire.

Majorettes dazzled the football fans as they marched onto the field twirling flaming batons. This is the first year the Majorettes attempted and succeeded in twirling batons flaming with fire. The Majorette team created amazing routines which gained admiration from all spectators. Through the year, these girls practiced together after school and with the marching band, under the sponsorship of Mr. Gerald Lewis. Much time was devoted to practice for twirling batons on parade routes differs greatly from twirling batons at half-time. The Majorettes, whether parading or entertaining, performed with such originality, beauty, and skill that no Warrior will ever forget them.

Wakefield Drill

A main attraction at all the major sports events is the Wakefield Drill Team. Composed of 45 girls, the team has done much to promote school spirit throughout Wakefield. During halftime the girls perform at all home football and basketball games with their own cheering sections at each event. Additional game activities included the selling of victory balloons and lollipops.

To further their school services, the girls sold game tickets at all lunch periods, ushered at the fall play, and held a Warrior's War Dance at which the crowning of the Basketball Chief was held. The girls also instituted the new program this year of sending cards and flowers to sick or injured students and faculty.

Although most of the team's time was taken with school activities it participated in the annual Christmas Parade in Bethesda, Maryland, and the George Washington Parade in Alexandria, Virginia. Performing with the Majorettes and the Marching Band, Wakefield's Drill Team won second place in Bethesda.

In the 1964-1965 school year, dances were a welcome relief from the pressures of the school routine. The season started with the Iota Harvest Dance which was followed by the Halloween Dance in November. Then, in order to raise money for the Prom, Club '65 initiated Harvey's Hideaway. The Senior Alumnae Dance held during the Christmas holidays completed the 1964 year.

The Psi Snow Queen Dance began the new year, to be followed by Zeta's Gorp at which the annual Ugly Man is chosen. After this casual dance came the long awaited Open Season Dance in Sadie Hawkins style which is sponsored by Optimi and held in April. The new Underclass Prom came in May as an answer to the traditional Junior Prom. The year of dances ended with the lavish Senior Prom, gorgeously decorated in a Louis XIV style.

"The Skin Of Our Teeth"

Hilarious and sometimes tragic struggles of the human race throughout the ages were portrayed on the stage of the Wakefield auditorium when the curtain rose December 3 & 4 on the Fall Play.

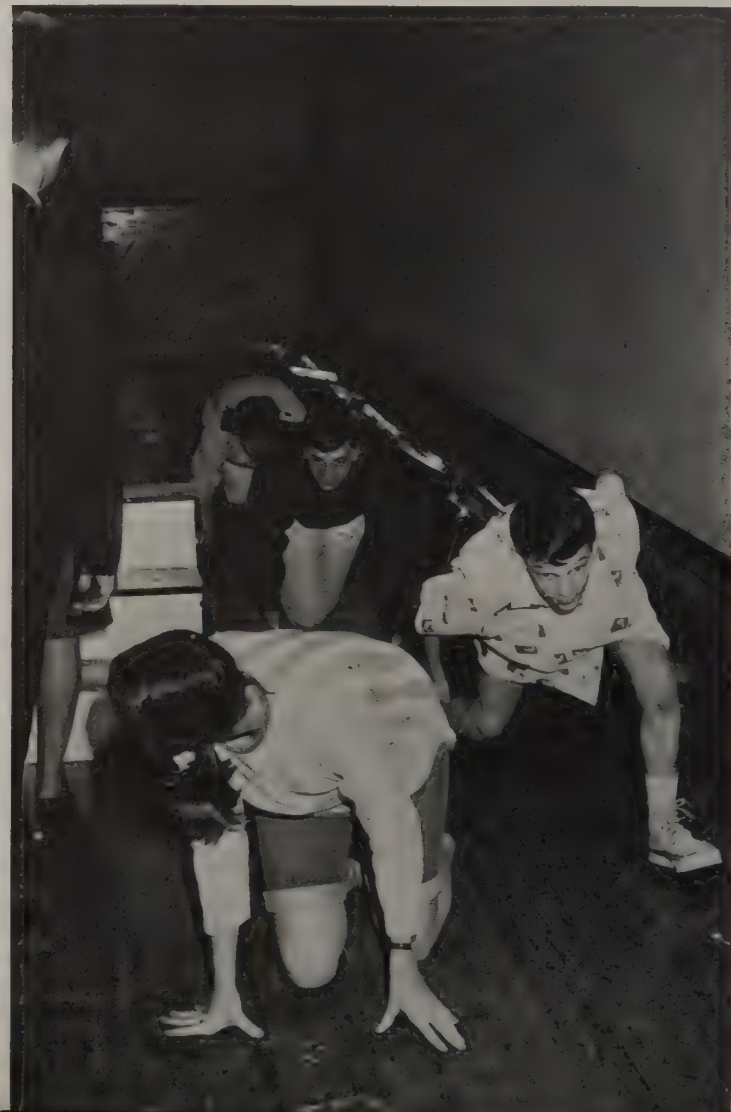

Thornton Wilder's, "The Skin of Our Teeth" under the direction of Mr. Robert Stevens, symbolizes the entire human race in the Antrobus family whose life begins in the Ice Age and races through the centuries to the present. The hardships of fire, flood, and war did not present defeat; the Antrobus family carried on.

Playing in "Skin of Our Teeth" were Dawn Chatty, Mrs. Antrobus; Buzz Christianson, Mr. Antrobus; and Cecelia Ward as the maid. The actors pleasantly surprised the audience with their dramatic and comedy ability, which added greatly to the enjoyment of the play. New aspects of play production were also incorporated this year with the addition of new lighting and sound techniques. Whether on stage, or back stage, the hard work of the Wakefield students made the 1964 Fall Play a success.

Sabina, better known as Cecilia Ward, captured the hearts of everyone there.

Ida Chatty leads the "brigade" as they stealthily crawl behind the scenes during the production.

Buzz Christianson is saluted by the cast, and the audience, as the curtains draw to a close.

Mike Fitzpatrick, as "Liliom," reassures "Julie," Jane Stubbs as Cecilia Ward portrays a disgusted "Mrs. Muskat."

Judy Borecki, as "Marie," tells "Julie" of her secret love.

Roger Coles get the draw on "Ficsur," Jerry Khatcheressian, in one of the more moving scenes.

Solemnity envelopes the audience as "Julie" bids farewell to "Liliom."

"Liliom"

"Liliom," the Wakefield Drama Department's Spring Play, was an unqualified success. Under the direction of Mrs. Mora Shell the cast presented the play which was the forerunner of the Broadway musical, "Carousel." Two successive nights of full houses viewed this capable production with beautiful and stunningly realistic sets created by a stage crew headed by Tom Moore and Tom Colkitt. The cast strengthened by many Thespians and drama students, starred Mike Fitzpatrick, Jane Stubbs, Cecilia Ward, Judy Borecki, and regulars Jerry Khatcheressian, Buzz Christianson, and Roger Coles. A musical background from "Carousel" was provided by the Wakefield Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Harvey Krasney. "Liliom" was a success in the tradition of Wakefield's drama history.

Thespians Produce Great Acts

To become a Thespian, a student must accumulate points by working with play productions and other designated activities. New members, who have acquired the necessary points, are inducted after the first semester and again in the spring.

On Halloween, Wakefield Thespians held a party, inviting other Thespian groups from W & L and Yorktown. Each person chose a scene or pantomime and presented it to the groups.

Besides learning and having fun, the Thespian Society devoted itself to Wakefield and each Warrior. The members presented "A Christmas Night," emphasizing the beauty of the senior court to sing in the Thespian's hootenanny. Thespian members proved their ability in managing, acting and producing by their three one-act plays presented in May.

The Society's biggest responsibility and task are the two school plays, fall and spring. The members help locate props, rummage until proper costumes are found, and help with dress changes, make-up, lighting, and curtain.

The Thespian Society, while faithfully and willingly participating, producing, and sponsoring many functions, largely contributed in the success of Wakefield, which was enjoyed by every Warrior this year. Many of the functions given for the warriors owe enthusiasm and support to each member of the Thespian Society.

Council Coordinates Service Clubs

B. Hicks, Treasurer; K. Fonvielle, President; S. Trapnell, Vice-President; C. Whitney, Secretary.

The purpose of the Service Club Council is to promote and coordinate the operations and activities in the various Wakefield Service Clubs. Under the direction of Mr. Don Diffenbaugh, it is responsible for activities such as dances, contests and school projects conducted in the name of the entire Wakefield Service Club Council. Such traditional activities as the Christmas Basket Contests, annual Service Club Sing contest, and the Induction Ceremony are sponsored by the Council.

Representatives of the clubs have the responsibilities of setting the standards, formulating policies, and planning joint activities within the clubs. This year the Council has been working on the ordering of new pins. Since last year's change to school sponsorship, the pins must be designed for Service Club Affiliation.

At the end of the year, the Council selects faculty judges who then choose the outstanding Boys' and Girls' Service Club according to their contributions to the school and community.

All kinds of thoughts enter into Suzie Trapnell's mind as she helps take the minutes.

Upon graduation of last year's senior class, Beta Service Club had to reorganize entirely its 1965 membership. Recruiting a handful of young enthusiastic sophomore girls, Beta was reorganized and chartered at the beginning of the school year. Although inexperienced to the ways of Wakefield service clubs, Beta's girls have shown the success and leadership that the club had formerly achieved. This performance was done through both school and community projects. An early fall bake sale at the Shirlington Jelleff's store enabled the club to finance a float for the W-L pep rally. The theme of victory was expressed through their "Lick W-L" slogan.

In an effort to promote school spirit and their club's name Beta members advertised the coming of school events with particular emphasis on Wakefield sports. This same effort was devoted to their Christmas Basket which won honors for quality and quantity. The Christmas season also gave the members a chance to carol at the Sleepy Hollow Manor Nursing Home in Fairfax, Virginia. Beta finished its year by participating in the Service Club Sing, resulting in a very active and successful year for the girls.

Delta Puffs On

OFFICERS: Linda Dublin, Sergeant at Arms; Marcy Bullick, Secretary; Carol Glasser, Treasurer; Jackie Hilcken, President; Heidi Sparks, Vice President; Brenda Hicks, Service Club Council Representative; Miss Smith, Sponsor.

Delta Service Club began another active year at Wakefield by holding its annual powderpuff football game at the W-L pep rally. Dressed in the uniforms of the J. V. football game, Wakefield was winner, of course. Their success was cheered on by several burly boys in cheerleading uniforms. Not only did the game add much spirit to the student body, but it contributed to the enthusiasm which began Delta's school year.

Working for both the school and community was the goal that Delta hoped to accomplish. The members held bake sales in order to finance their projects, one of which was their annual Christmas Basket. With the participation of every club member, the girls collected much food and constructed a basket which earned recognition for the club. In order to maintain this momentum Delta entered the annual Service Club Council Sing, and sponsored two spring parties for Junior Village and a Virginia nursing home.

Delta members are pleased with the plans for their Christmas basket.

Optimi Chairs Seniors

The very popular Optimi Service Club has again carried out another successful year at Wakefield. This year as in previous years Optimi has been the keeper of the Wakefield Totem Pole which they brought to every football game. This wooden good luck charm seemed to promote school spirit as well as to bring good luck to the team. Optimi then held its traditional Optimi Open Season in the spring. This once-a-year occasion is very popular with Wakefield girls as they are able to tag their favorite boy and be his personal slave for a whole week. This "privilege" includes carrying his books and opening doors, with the climax of the week being a dance held on Friday night.

With money made from this dance and other fund raising projects Optimi bought chairs for the new Senior Court as well as contributed $100 to the Ralph Rowsey Scholarship Fund and pledged $50 for following years. Entering the Christmas Basket Contest won the club prizes in quantity, quality and attractiveness. Finishing out the year, the boys entered the annual Spring Service Club Sing.

Shany Canham leads club members in a discussion of future club projects.

Another service club which was forced to recruit new members because many of last year's members graduated is Eta Service Club. Now composed of both underclass and upper-class girls, Eta has striven to maintain the reputation of service which its predecessors achieved.

The members of the club began their goal by a campaign to publicize their club name to the student body. This project was done through various posters promoting school activities and events. A club bulletin board was kept to publicize various activities.

These activities began with the W-L pep rally. To display the club's school spirit the girls entered a skit which included real horses, a first for the annual pep rally. More work and cooperation were involved in the club's many Christmas activities. The girls contributed a Christmas basket containing food to the SCA's annual Christmas Basket Contest. Christmas stockings were also made and filled by all the club members. By holding bake sales during the weekends, Eta Service Club was able to contribute funds to the SCA, the Heart Fund Drive, and Boys' Town. The participation of this club has gained for it a reputation of service, the goal hoped to be accomplished.

Gamma has African Culture Study

Gina Fite shows the enthusiasm of a good president.

Gamma Service Club's year of activities began with an important community project. During the Presidential campaign the Club stressed the importance of voting in its drive to get more parents to vote. As the year progressed the girls' main project was their African culture program. This program's purpose was to familiarize interested Wakefield students with Africa's customs, culture, and way of life.

In order to raise money for the many different charities, such as the scholarship fund and the Heart Drive, Gamma held various bake sales. Other school activities in which the club was involved in were the W-L Pep Rally, and the Christmas Basket Contest. The members compiled many busy hours in preparing their pep rally float and their Christmas Basket. With such spring activities as the Service Club Sing, Gamma Service Club will continue to be busy.

Iota Fends for Orphans

Susan Hooker, the Council Representative, briefs Iota members about the last meeting.

Begun as a sophomore service club three years ago, the girls of Iota Service Club have served both the school and community. The club began its year of activities by sponsoring the first dance of the school year, the Harvest Dance. The profits from this dance were coupled with the proceeds of their bake sales and were donated to the orphans in the Presbyterian Home in Lynchburg, Virginia.

After also collecting articles of clothing for Goodwill Industries the girls of Iota then concentrated on school services and activities. They entered a float which featured all the club members in the W-L pep rally. Their Christmas Basket in the Christmas Basket Contest won an honorable mention. With the spring season Iota Service Club has many plans for activities, including the annual Service Club Council Sing held in May. The active participation has given the members of the club a well rounded year.

Kappa Fights Mental Illness

Kappa Girls wait for the meeting to start.

Kappa Service Club in '64-'65 had an active and successful year. The girls gained much knowledge on mental illness as speakers and films appeared on programs throughout the year. This knowledge was shared with the brother service club, Optimi. Parallel with this project, the club contributed much time and effort to such institutions as St. Elizabeth's Junior Village and Children's Hospital. Aid for the community continued as the girls contributed in the Muscular Dystrophy fund drive both locally and at Washington headquarters. To raise funds for the club, Kappa held car washes and sold food after school.

The girls' efforts in entering school activities was also successful as they placed both in the W-L Pep rally and Christmas Basket Contest. For the Service Club Sing the girls dressed in Roaring Twenty outfits and sang a melody of songs popular in this era. With this fine record, the girls of Kappa Service Club will be able to look forward to a prosperous club next year.

Phi Sparks Spirit

Only John Borden braves it when Jeff Ethel pours on the water.

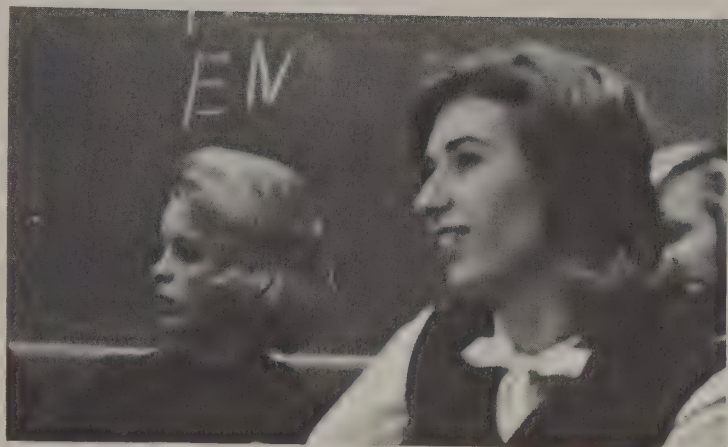

Phi Service Club crashed into 1965 with impressive spirit and work and has made itself known as one of Wakefield's most active clubs. "Phi's guy's" formed a block of cheerers at each football game and took second place in the W-L pep rally float contest with their Viking ship. Throwing its support behind the gymnastic and track teams, Phi worked hard to clear the cross-country course, construct a shot-put circle and a weight lifting platform.

In addition, Phi spent an afternoon washing the faculty's cars. Phi's victory dance was a smashing success. The active club was overhead in peanuts, selling them at the Inauguration and after school. This year has been one of the clubs most active ever. With excellent officers, a host of junior members and a full treasury, Phi looks forward to continuing service to Wakefield and its community.

Phi members display their hidden talents in the dead of night.

Psi Dials Victory

Marge Acher and Beth Ewell listen attentively as plans are being made for the Snow Queen Ball.

Psi, one of Wakefield's more prominent service clubs, served the school and community through its many projects. At school, Psi members collected college catalogues for the Guidance Department, sold pizza after school, decorated the offices for all holidays, served refreshments at various dances, found a home for Harvey, the senior rabbit, folded eight hundred dummy diplomas for graduation rehearsal, and sponsored their annual Snow Queen Ball. Through hard work and determination, Psi members provided the basketball programs sold at home games.

In the community, Psi donated food to a needy family and collected money for people stricken with cerebral palsy. Psi's float, "Dial V for Victory," won first place and their Christmas Basket won the highest award.

Tau Sells Mugs with School Crest

Plans for future activities please Tau members.

Tau, one of the more active service clubs of Wakefield, has been very productive this year in both school and community life. Tau is exclusively a senior girls club which means that this will mark the end of this chapter of Tau.

To start the year, Tau members decorated the goal posts at home football games, sold lollipops, and provided publicity at football games by advertising with original signs.

At the end of the football season, Tau received the honorable mention for its float entry in the W-L pep rally. The float, which was a gigantic mug with Wakefield's crest, represented the sale of Tau mugs conducted by its members.

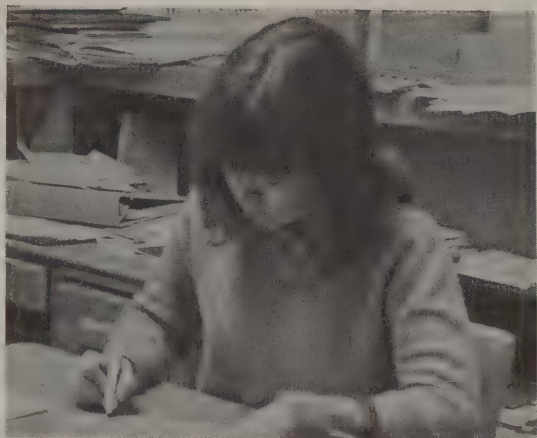

Later in the year, Tau presented Wakefield with an American flag to be placed in the cafeteria and the flag of Virginia to be flown in the front of the building. This flag was given to them by Congressman Joel T. Broyhill.

In spite of many varied contributions and activities, Tau still had time and enthusiasm to support their Korean orphan.

Theta Manufactures Play Programs

Vice-President Jane Stubbs draws an example for the Theta girls to copy.

Since its formation in 1960 Theta Service Club has aided both the school and community. In past years the service club has worked on many imaginative projects and this year is no exception. To start the school year Theta Service Club tackled the job of manufacturing programs for the fall play.

The girls did much to promote school spirit at Wakefield. A good example of this was the production of the "Lick-Um" sticks for the annual Washington-Lee football game.

Theta contributed more to the community by entering in the Wakefield Christmas Basket Contest. In the spring the club participated in various school activities. Two of these included joining in the Service Club Sing and operating a booth at Wakefield.

As a conclusion to a most successful year Theta Service Club helped the community by collecting for UNICEF.

Suzie Carpenter and Norma Harvis put the finishing touches on Theta's project in the library.

Omega Cares

In serving both the school and community, Omega Service Club performed a number of service activities. The club began its year with summer bake sales at neighboring shopping centers. This jump on activities enabled the club to finance its 1964-65 projects. The first main project was a Thanksgiving's Day Basket for a needy family. Through this deed of good will the girls gained a personal satisfaction. Wakefield's principal, Mr. Jacob Johnson, acknowledged Omega's community service with a personal thank-you note.

Around the beginning of the year, Omega gave food to another needy family, and while collecting the food, Omega girls decorated a Christmas tree in the cafeteria lobby for the enjoyment of the Warriors. Their spirit of giving was also extended internationally with their donations to an overseas orphan fund. Further contributions went to the annual March of Dimes Drive.

At the end of the year, Omega Service Club participated in the annual Service Club Council Sing, and in late spring they presented a show for area orphans.

As the meeting progresses, Omega girls find their plans for the summer very amusing.

Xi Has a Heart

Although it was newly organized this year, Xi Service Club accomplished several projects concerning the school and community. During the football season, members attended athletic events and formed a Xi pep section to promote spirit. They also participated in the W-L pep rally float contest entering a guillotine float, which won the award of honorable mention. Xi Service Club members entered the Christmas season with their usual vigor. During Wakefield's Christmas Basket Contest, Xi members enjoyed the gatherings at different members' homes to produce a colorful sleigh which was filled with canned goods. To share happiness during this season, Xi boys carolled in various neighborhoods. The Ralph Rowsey Scholarship Fund Drive obtained additional support from Xi by receiving half of the profit from Xi's Valentine Sweetheart Contest. Xi members entertained orphans of all ages by assisting in an Annual Talent Show given at an orphanage in the community. In the spring of the year, Xi members completed a successful year by singing in the Service Club Sing.

Zeta Urges Safe-Teen Driving

During the '64-'65 school year, Zeta Service Club not only demonstrated its ability, but its sense of humor as well.

The club year began with a membership drive for the Safe-Teen Drivers' Club, sponsored by the Arlington Police Department. This goal was achieved when one thousand Wakefield students were initiated.

Another important project was the controversial bulletin board which aroused the interest of both the students and faculty, with comments concerning subjects from the Beatles to the administration ruling on haircuts. Zeta's humor was also displayed during the W-L pep rally, when, after much publicity, the absence of its float was because members thought it was next week.

However, the boys seriously worked on their annual Christmas basket, and other projects for the school. The annual Gorp Dance was held in the spring accompanied with the crowning of the Ugly Man.

G-W, Hammond, Stuart

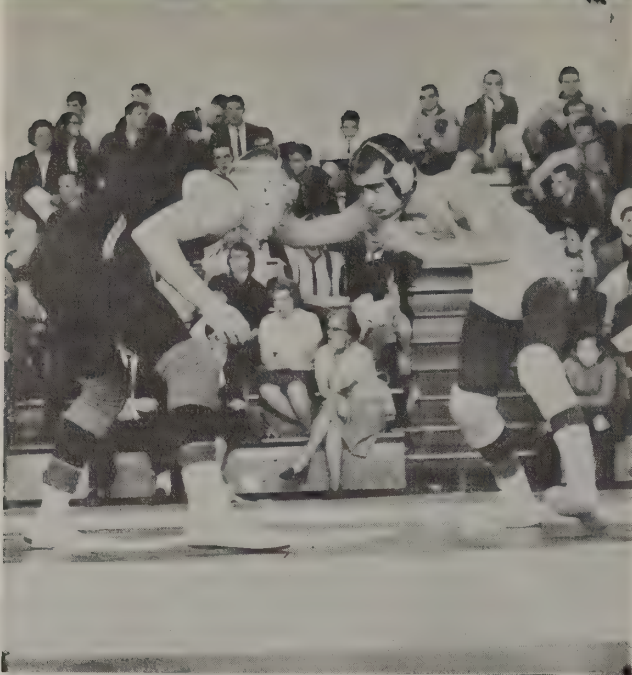

Harvey Crittendon tries for a basket against G-W as Clayton Powell and Lucky Gant move toward the basket.

Clayton Powell scores a layup in the Edison game.

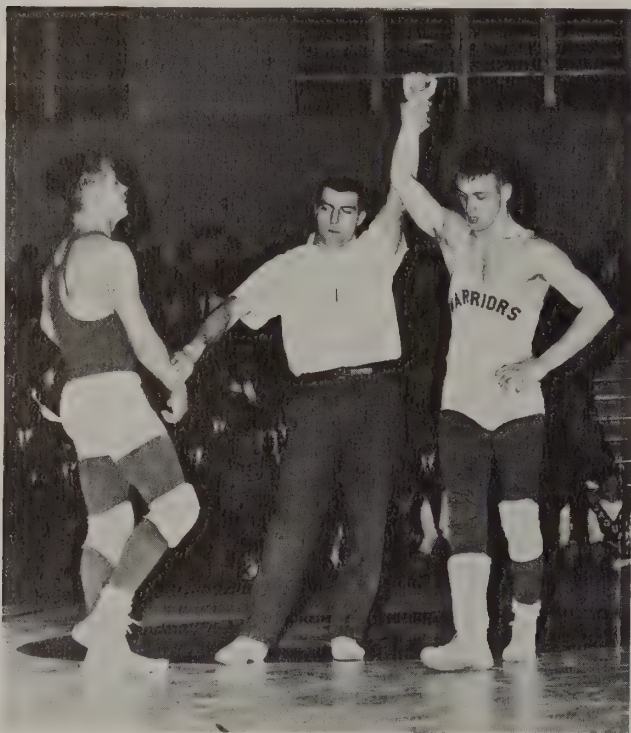

Bob Roop leaps to fire at the basket as Harvey Crittendon comes up the court to help.

Ron Stewart grapples with his opponent in the Northern Virginia Tournament.

Bob Underhill raises his hand in victory over his Falls Church opponent.

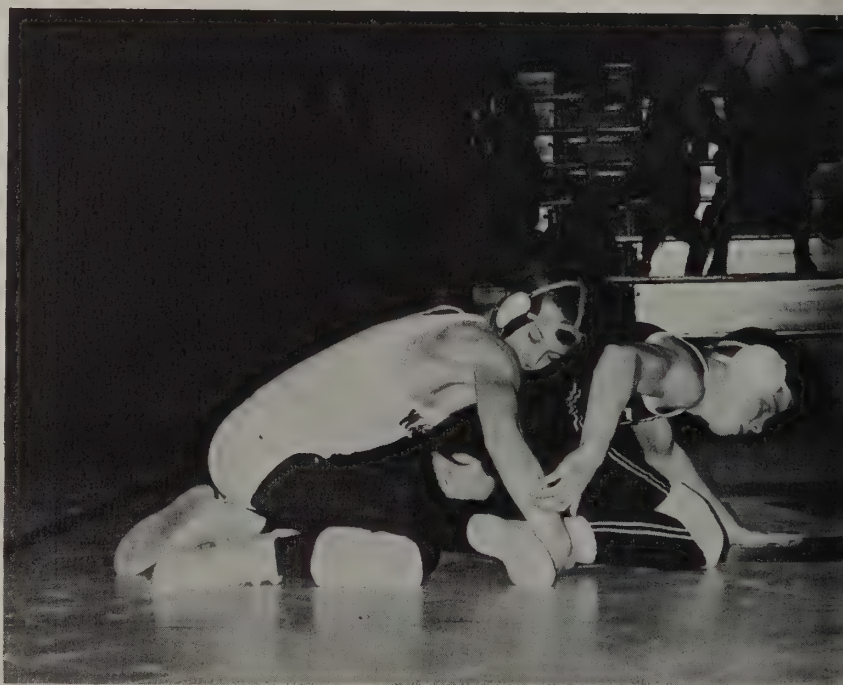

The wrestling team congratulates Tommy Legge for pinning his man.

Grapplers

Mr. Blue's Warrior Wrestling team won its third straight Northern Virginia Wrestling Championship. Individual weight class championships were won by Larry Randall, Ellis Bragg, and Tommy Legge while Bill Mohler placed second in his division. The team earned a total of 64 points to Stuart's 62 to win the championship. In regular season meets the Warriors compiled an 11-1-1 record. The victory string of 26 wins was finally snapped by Maury of Norfolk; the grapplers tied Yorktown and went on to beat Washington Lee and Mount Vernon to end the season.

Dick Bishop has the advantage over his opponent from W-L.

Are No. Virginia Champions

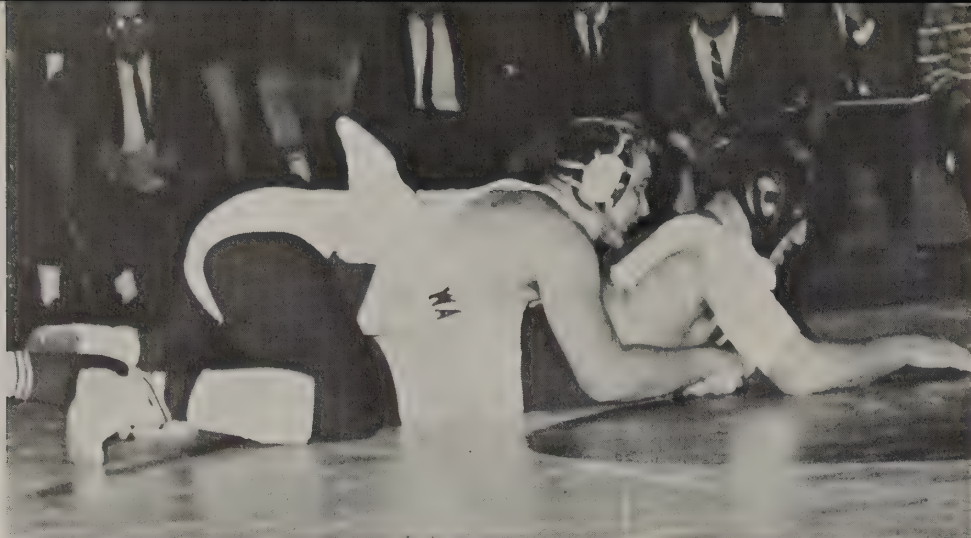

Larry Randall has a victory smile after taking the deciding match over W-L.

Marshall Rambeau stays on top of a Jaguar grappler.

Ron Yuter strains for the advantage.

Robert Taylor gains riding time.

Ellis Bragg and his General opponent strain for the advantage.

Cross Country Runs Well

The Cross Country Team coached by Mr. Ballew defeated Lee and Woodson in a tri-meet. The team ran well against the Navy Plebes and Maryland Frosh. The best meet was Falls Church which Wakefield won.

Paul Pacak is assisted with his sprained ankle.

Bob Smith gets set to pole vault.

Thinclads Are Strong

Wakefield began its track season coached by Mr. Swatt, assisted by Mr. Ballew. Mr. Swatt expects outstanding performances from Coleman in the high jump, Eberhart and Daniels in the hurdles; Gaskins in the pole vault. Wakefield should have an excellent dual meet record as well as make a fine showing in the larger meets; the team placed first in the Wakefield Invitational.

First Row: F. Litton, J. Greene, R. Longerich, S. Gaskins, D. Eberhart, J. Marut, D. Brogan. Second Row: D. McClinton, P. Pacak, K. Fonnvielle, H. Payne, J. Thacker. Third Row: B. Spencer, S. Soccer Team Smashes Records

After suffering defeats in its first four games, the soccer team adjusted to a new defensive style of play and, aided by a strong offense, was able to remain unbeaten in its next four games. Coach Reynolds considers the record most impressive in view of the fact that three victories were over strong college freshman teams.

Three records were smashed: Most victories, 7; longest winning streak, 7; most shutouts, 5. Outstanding players Roc Bottomly and high scorer Kambiz Babehani were named to the All Metropolitan Soccer Team. The scorers were Babehani (17), Steve Gaskins (4), and John Stavropoulos (3).

Front Row: James Shafer, Steve Micas, Paul Stowe, John Redue, John Mosely, Mark Rubinstein, Thomas McFarland, Robert Ashworth, Scott Hannon, James Stumpf. Second Row: David Williams, John Borden, John West, Dale Brogan, Steve Gaskins, Myles Mernone, Dick Rust, John Stavropoulos, Kambiz Behbahani, Roc Bottomly, Tony Forsyth, Ken Johnston, Harry Dutton. Third Row: Coach Reynolds, Bill Sullivan, Jon Sugrue, Jerry Schultz, Duke Grimshaw, Mike Fitzpatrick, Tom Daniel, Robert Stitt, William Caruthers, Paul Bouchard, Bob Wheeler, Doug Marshall, Buddy Howell. Missing: Bill Sullivan, John Vordermark.

Goalie Dick Rust is too late and too far in the Northwestern game.

Coach McCulloch addresses the team members.

Fred Morgan warms up before batting.

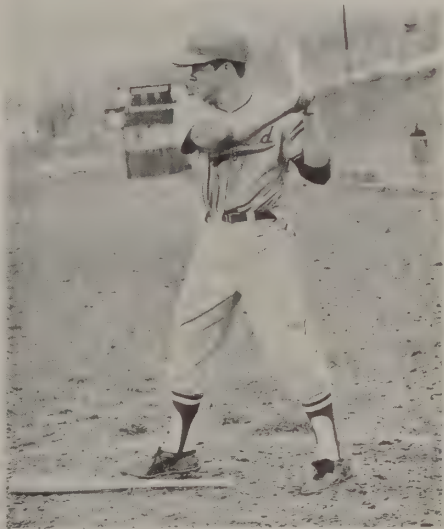

Baseball Team Is Class of League

At the beginning of the season one paper called Wakefield the team in the southern division. The other papers came closer to the truth, "Wakefield is the class of the League." This was the consensus of the League's coaches also. Mr. McCulloch's baseball team opened its season by defeating Stuart 5-2. Several games were rained out and had to be played later on in the season.

Coach McCulloch discusses strategy.

Standing: Dave Helscher, Roc Bottomly, Ken Johnston, Douglass Marshall, David Nanney. Kneeling: Ron Yuter, Wayne Jones, Dick Ong, Jeremy Kahn.

Wakefield's number three doubles team, Ron Yuter and Jeremy Kahn.

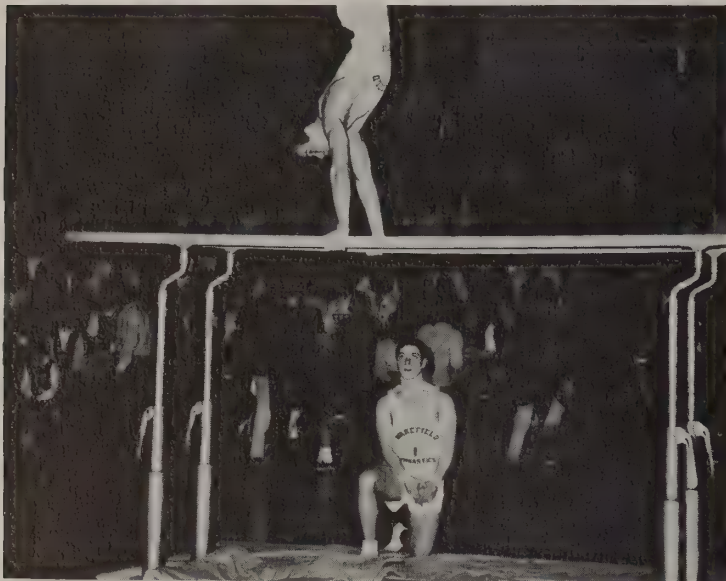

Has Experience

The netmen under the coaching of Mr. Haithcock were one of the strongest teams in the area. The team opened its season with a very decisive 9-0 victory over Stuart. Judging from the experience and ability of the team it will finish strong and should beat W-L and Yorktown.

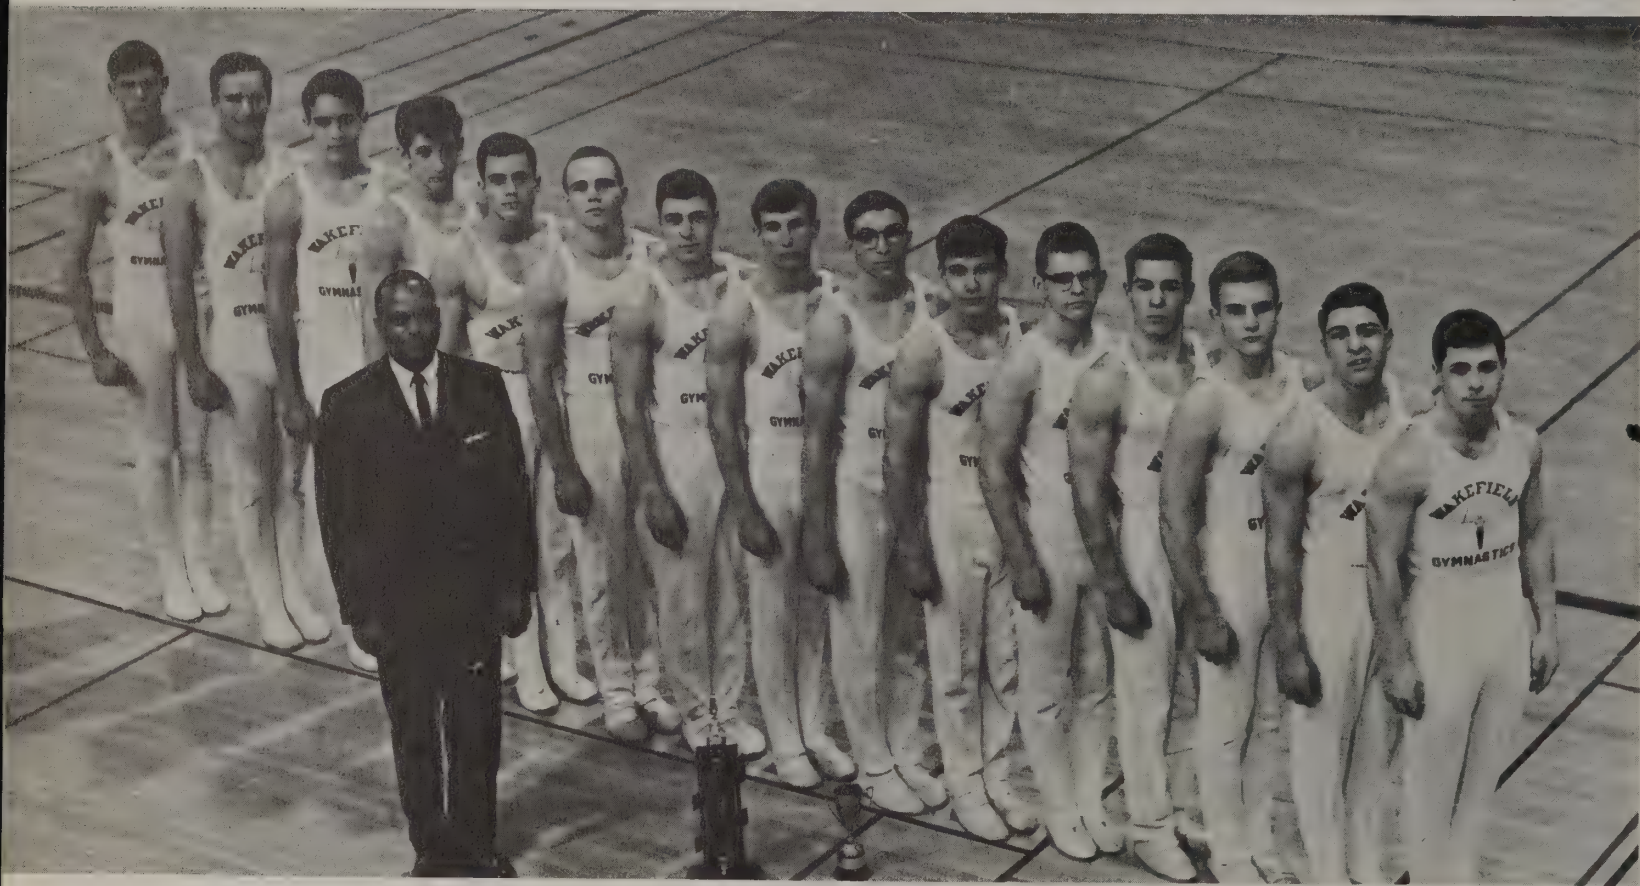

Gym Team Is Second In State

Dick Taffe spots for Pat Swanson on the bars during halftime at a basketball game.

The Warrior Gymnastics Squad, coached by Mr. Bill Lee, placed a strong second in the Virginia State Championships and the Yorktown Invitational. Yorktown, the state champ, was the only team able to defeat the Wakefield gymnasts. The chances are even brighter for next year because many of the team members are not seniors and will return to competition in the coming season.

First Row: Coach Bill Lee. Second Row: B. Logan, R. Leitner, J. Crooks, G. Burr, R. Wilson, J. Carter, A. Gatti, J. Barnes, J. Lewis, T. Clark, J. Lucius, P. Swanson, B. Harvey, R. Gatti, D. Taffe.

Bottom Row: D. Wood, D. Coleman, S. Starner, J. Greenwood, J. Ford, S. Butler, D. Bell, D. Tillet, W. Jenkins, F. Litton, M. Jeffries, A. Castelda, K. Fadely. Second Row: D. McClinton, S. Whalen, H. Payne, T. Forsyth, J. Marut, T. Daniels, S. Metcalf, K. Fonneville, D. Eberhart, T. Thacker.

Indoor Track Finishes Strong

The Wakefield Warrior indoor track team compiled a strong record during the indoor season. The boys smashed St. Johns twice during the winter and trounced Episcopal for another pair of wins. Two meets were never completed, but Wakefield was leading in each.

The team practices outdoors on a warm day.

Steve Gaskins clears the bar in the pole vault.

J. V. Football

The baby Warrior football team posted a .500 season this year. Coached by Mr. Day, the experience the team members gain is invaluable.

J. V. Basketball

The Wakefield Junior Varsity Hoopsters, under the mentorship of Mr. Haygood, had a winning season which qualified them for the JV Tournament, in which they were one of the top teams.

Front Row: D. Timmons, J. Martin, B. Duehring, P. Roberts, J. Weisert, D. Bell. Second Row: D. Morano, T. Cassidy, J. Hall, P. Stringer, D. Borcheller, B. McClure.

Bottom Row: L. Ford, D. Shannon, J. Mann, S. Fridge, R. Johnson, N. Greene, B. Hooper. Standing: J. Fields, J. Swindell, J. Steinhoff, C. Davenport, T. James, M. Kirkham.

Junior Varsity Wrestling

Mr. Lassiter's JV Wrestling team posted one of the highest point totals of any Warrior team when they beat the Woodson JV 82-0.

J. V. Cross Country Team

Mr. Ballew's JV Warriors placed third in the JV meet in post season competition. The squad's course is the same length as that of the Varsity Cross Country Squad, 2.8 miles in length.

Standing: E. Lochridge, K. Jenkins, J. Butler, I. Johnson, C. Leonard. Kneeling: R. Count, D. Copano, T. Dudley, D. Coleman, D. Dehuff.

First Row: J. Hollett. Second Row: B. Blair, R. Scott. Third Row: A. Bartolamew, G. Dehuff, B. Marseglia, L. Fox. Fourth Row: S. Secora, D. Gerber, R. Almasy. Fifth Row: H. Brodtkin, B. Bordon, J. Junior Varsity Track

The Junior Varsity track team competes in the same events as the varsity and those under fifteen years old compete in a post-season meet.

J. V. Baseball Team

The J.V. Baseball team coached by Mr. Jack Ponis won its first game but had several others called on account of rain. J.V. playing provides valuable experience for the team members.

First Row: T. Wander, R. Cathy, B. Duehring, P. Greene, D. Borcheller, M. Rogers, D. Ramsey. Second Row: L. Funkhouser, S. Davis, D. Morano, T. McFarland, K. Johnson, J. Page. Third Row: Coach, Mr. Gates, B. Thacker, J. Moore, T. Dostetler, B. Wheeler, P. Roberts, C. Gandy, Coach, Mr. Jack Ponis.

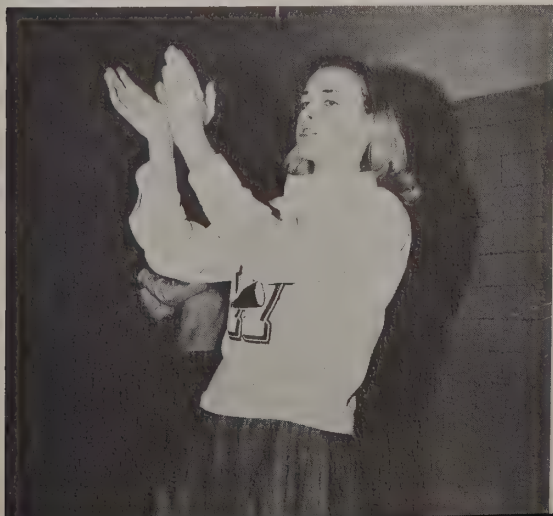

J. V. Cheerleaders Provide Pep

A good cheerleader is one who displays school spirit, tries to promote an interest from the crowd and has plenty of pep. Under the sponsorship of Miss Louise Heier, and the leadership of the two co-captains, Dana Lydon and Cherie Weeks, the squad worked hard to enliven the spirit of the underclassmen. With less than two weeks to prepare for the first game, the squad was coached by the Varsity cheerleaders, both squads participated together in an Activity Night.

Community . . .

The individual and the community help one another to grow, progress, and prosper by mutual participation.

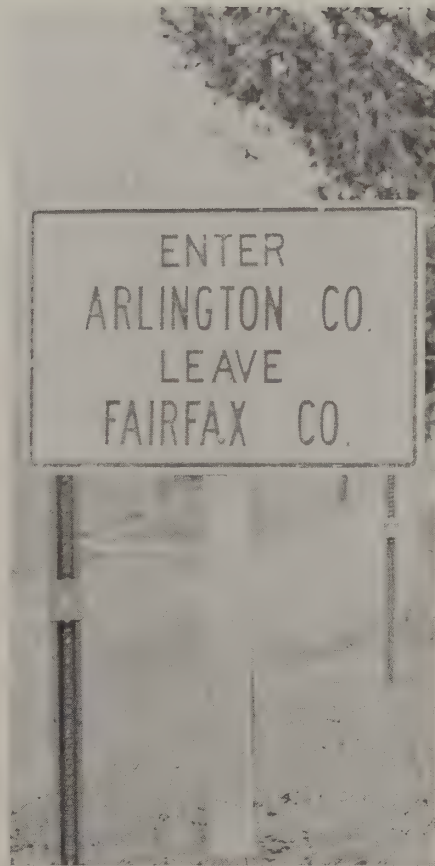

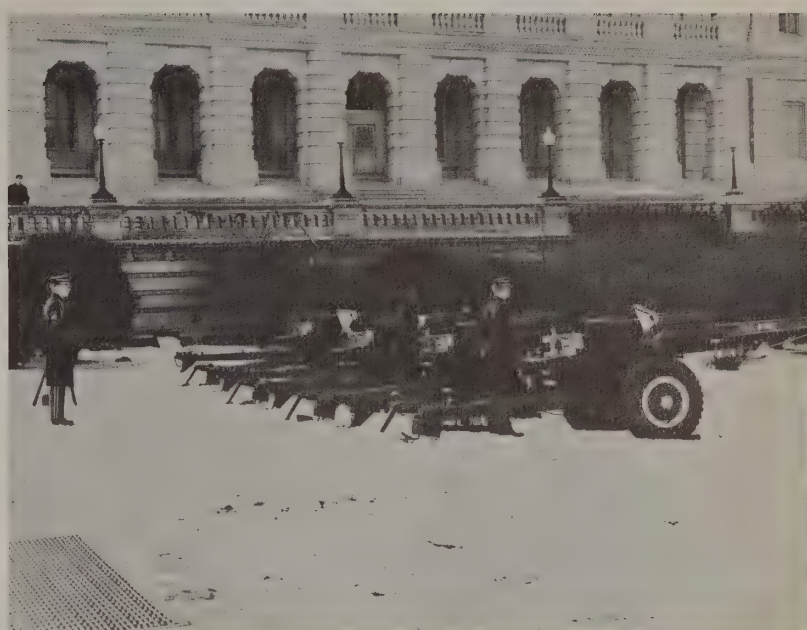

The individual's contributions do not end at the close of a school day or at the end of a sports event. The community is another aspect of a student's life. The individual is just as important to the community as the community is important to the individual. They help one another grow, progress, and prosper by mutual participation. Each and every member of the community gains or loses from their own and other's contributions. This is why each member must be willing to put forth extra effort to develop profitable ideas that will improve the community; thus, making it a better place for him and his family to live. Not only must the individual develop these ideas, but he must also take the responsibility for carrying them out.

The individual finds a place . . .

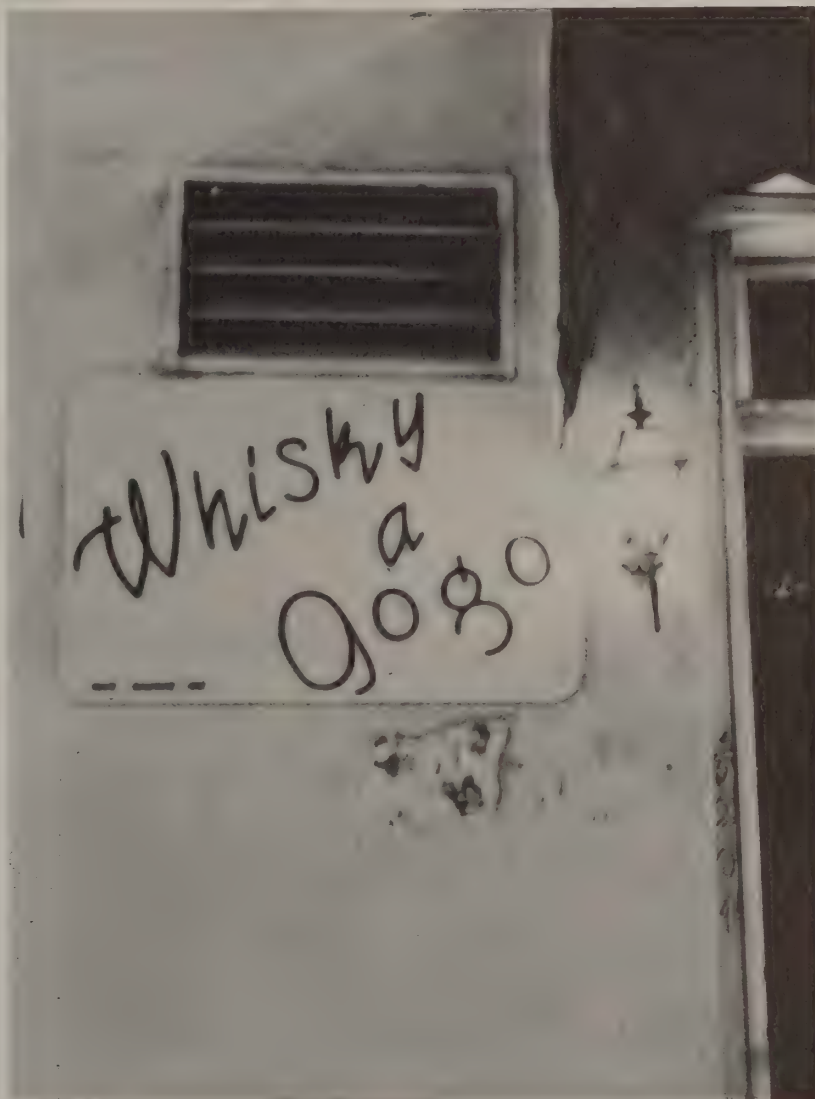

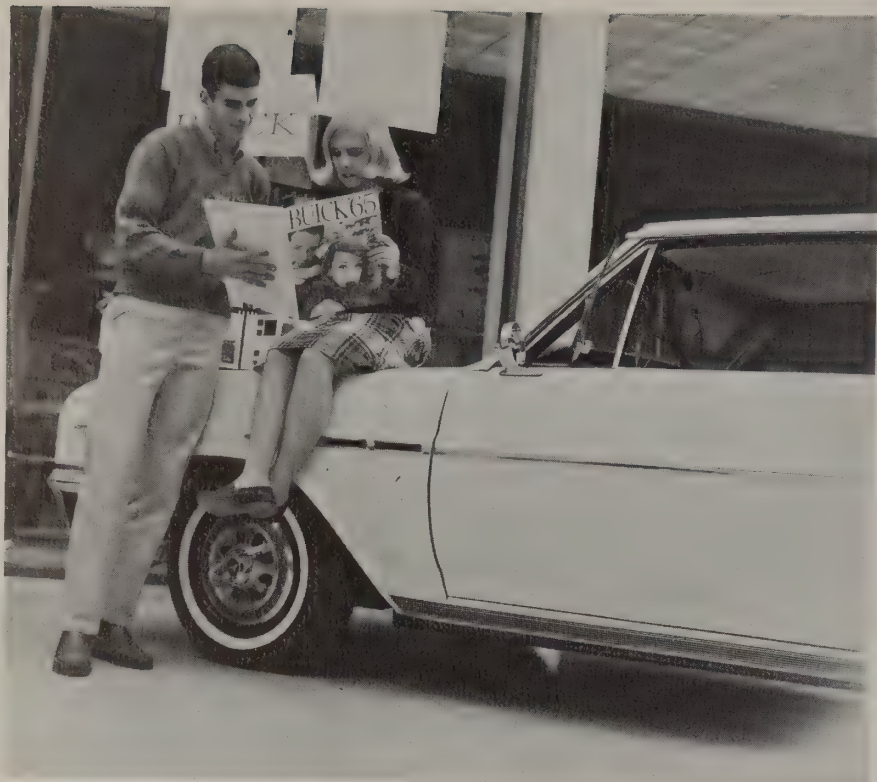

It is a serious mistake for a student not to take part in community activities simply because he is lazy or he feels it is unimportant. Once he reaches the point of taking on the responsibilities of adulthood, he will be at a loss for he will find that his life is centered around the community. A student will be better adjusted to enter into adult life and the working or college world if he takes time out now to participate in his community.

It is quite obvious that the school is a part of the community for every member of the community is a participant. The student attends the school, and will then support these schools just as his parents are now doing through their taxes.

School and the community go hand in hand in our modern world, both depending on one another.

*to a real cool cat
 we can really yell.
 Best of luck next year
 From "Honey"*

Barry
 Although you shot
 me with those paper
 rockets, I still feel that you are a dear and good friend of mine. May you have the best of luck when ever you are out year or don't shoot any more rockets.
 Jessie
 '65.

Barry
 I am a real cool guy
 and I'll see you on the 15th.
 happy hangers

Genes
 to a real sweet
 guy and a real nut.
 Stay as sweet as you are and I'll always remember you. Remember me + Joe. It's to bad you couldn't be here next year.
 Love ya

Have a happy second

From now until the day you die you will have consumed many gallons, remember Dean's baby, every gallon you eat will have the same of my heart in it for I will have gotten there first.

Mr. Dick,

Doris—

It's been great fun this year and I hope that while you're wandering cross-country this summer you'll remember me!

Choir has been quite an experience for us and it's unfortunate that neither of us will be back next year!

I want to hear from you by letter and phone, ok?!? Here are the specifics: 5100 Dorset Ave. #203
Chevy Chase, Md.
tele. 654-1901

Take care and love,

Betsy

well I don't know what you will be doing next
it is I wish you the best of luck.
It has been great times in English and I know much of it. I will forget them

Best of luck
in the future, its
been nice having you
in math class with me,
take care and good luck
Andy

Sitnik, the Sputnik,
Even though you throw air planes, etc. you are still a very nice "little" boy. It was fun laughing at you in Miss Moriess' hard "class" and also in Mr. Wall's Eng. class
Luck to you in Everything
Love ya,
Marcia

Denise, all
Remember all the parties & good fun on your vacation
& good luck in the future.
Love

to a cool head and a swinging beat of love
Butch Brady

Denise!
Good luck buddy
after you get out of only know we will need
it
